Great Britain Masses Fleet In Mediterranean

PREPARATION FOR WARFARE BEING MADE

League Committee Alarmed By Reports of Fighting

BULLETIN LONDON, Sept. 17.—(UP)—Foreign Secretary Sir Samuel Hoare was understood tonight to have informed the British cabinet France had given assurance she would not avoid participation in imposing collective sanctions against Italy in event of breakdown in peace negotiations in the Ethiopian dispute.

By UNITED PRESS EVENTS in the Italian-Ethiopian crisis moved swiftly towards a climax in Europe today. Outstanding events follow:

The British navy masses in the Mediterranean in formidable force, including some of the largest fighting units in the home fleet and others from as far away as China.

Forty thousand British troops, with 300 tanks and scores of airplanes, start maneuvers in the south of England.

Statements at Geneva showed the nervousness by extreme agitation over reports of fighting on the Ethiopian frontier, although Rome officially denied the reports.

Cabinet Called All members of the British cabinet available near London called in special session.

Premier Mussolini, in an interview with the Paris Matin, charges Britain with bad faith, indicating that enforcement of penalties against Italy might involve "re-casting the map of Europe" and hinting that Italy might seek the support of Germany and other countries deprived of colonies.

Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands—which has a colonial empire—informal parliament that the international crisis necessitates "special defense measures" for the Netherlands.

Italy is uneasy over the safety of its consular staffs in Ethiopia.

FLEET ASSEMBLES (Copyright 1935 by United Press) LONDON, Sept. 17.—(UP)—Great Britain was massing her naval might in the Mediterranean today for the most impressive show of strength since the world war.

At least part of the home fleet, supposedly engaged in maneuvers off the English coast, is being sent south to reinforce the powerful Mediterranean fleet.

Perfunctory statements to the contrary were belied by advices from Gibraltar. Formidable units of the home fleet arrived there, headed by the battle cruiser Hood, the world's largest warship.

The Hood was accompanied by the battle cruiser Renown and the cruisers Orion, Neptune and Achilles. They were joined by a cruiser, 11 destroyers and a mine-laying tender which arrived there yesterday.

Forces Increased Athens dispatches disclosed the Greek ministry of marine had announced that 26 British battleships and cruisers, 45 destroyers and auxiliary units would arrive in Greek waters between Sept. 25 and Oct. 15, visiting Corfu, Navarino and Agrostoli.

The full normal strength of the Mediterranean fleet is only 13 battleships and cruisers and 30 destroyers.

Corfu is only 60 miles from the Italian coast. In those waters, the fleet would be in a position to steam quickly to the defense of Malta, Britain's important naval base off Sicily.

The home and Mediterranean fleet units apparently are to be reinforced from other parts of the world, as far away as China. There have been mysterious sailings from Singapore and the British cruiser Berwick arrived there today. Others are expected.

Italian warships meanwhile were busy in the Mediterranean, especially in Greek waters. Six Italian destroyers were reported to

MOONEY SAYS WILL BE FREED BY U. S. COURT

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 17.—(UP)—Tom Mooney, convicted of the 1916 San Francisco preparedness day bombing, does not expect the supreme court of California to free him, he said today as he left San Quentin prison for a habeas corpus hearing in his behalf in San Francisco.

"The state supreme court will never free me—I'm pretty certain of that," he said. "But I'm even more certain the United States supreme court will grant me complete vindication and freedom."

The habeas corpus proceedings in the Mooney case form the latest step in the famous prisoner's long fight for freedom. The supreme court may order him freed, may grant him a new trial or may rule against him. In the latter event, Mooney's attorneys would transfer the entire record of the case to the United States court for final disposition.

Hearing Tomorrow Under a guard of 10 men, Mooney was moved to the police boat D. A. White today and transferred to county jail No. 1 to await start of the habeas corpus proceedings before A. E. Shaw, state supreme court referee, tomorrow morning.

A hearing will be held by the court today on a Mooney motion to clarify the extent of Referee Shaw's powers.

Mooney left San Quentin—the third time he has been outside its walls since he entered it 19 years ago—with confidence and a laugh. He boasted he has gained 29 pounds in the last two years.

"If I am dealt with according to the facts of the case," he said as the police boat roared across the

BOARD NAMES MENTON NEW PROSECUTOR

WILLIAM F. MENTON, of Santa Ana, was appointed district attorney of Orange county today, to succeed S. B. Kaufman, whose resignation was filed and accepted today.

Menton has been assistant district attorney for two years and served as a deputy district attorney for several years previously. He now steps to the head of the office, with Kaufman's transfer to private practice in Anaheim.

The change in administration of the office will be effective October 1. Menton today announced that there would be no change in the personnel of the district attorney's staff, except to fill the vacancy caused by Kaufman's resignation. He is not yet ready to announce an appointment to the vacancy, Menton said.

Makes Statement "I will bend every effort to maintain the high standards of efficiency held by the district attorney's office, and to show the public the same courtesies it has enjoyed in the past from this office. I deeply appreciate the appointment as district attorney and the opportunity for service it represents," was Menton's statement upon receipt of his appointment.

Only three members of the board were present when the Kaufman resignation was accepted and Menton's appointment made, Chairman John C. Mitchell and Supervisor Leroy Lyon having been absent in Washington for several weeks.

Action Unanimous Supervisor W. C. Jerome, of Santa Ana, moved the appointment of Menton, with Supervisor N. E. West and Acting Chairman Willard Smith unanimously supporting it.

One of the senior lawyers of Orange county, Menton has resided in Santa Ana for many years. He is a past-exalted ruler of the Santa Ana Elks lodge. He was a deputy district attorney under District Attorney L. A. West 15 years ago, and then was in private practice until five years ago, when he returned to the district attorney's office as a deputy under District Attorney Z. B. West Jr.

The new district attorney is married and has a son, Billy Jr., eight years of age.

San Diego Fort Being Refortified

SAN DIEGO, Sept. 17.—(UP)—The army's newest fortification project on the west coast, Fort Rosecrans, was inspected by members of the house appropriations committee today in their final official inspection tour before leaving for Texas army bases to night.

Fort Rosecrans, under command of Capt. P. W. Hardie, is being rebuilt and refortified after years of idleness and will provide one of the strong defense units of the lower west coast.

NATION MARKS BIRTHDAY OF CONSTITUTION

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—(UP)—The nation paused today to honor its 148-year-old constitution.

For some it was an occasion for attacks on legislation sponsored by President Roosevelt. For others it was a time to praise the New Deal.

The capital led the celebration with plans for a torchlight parade, a pageant and fireworks. Special concerts by the army and navy bands and speeches by churchmen and civic leaders will complete the program.

New Deal Attacked Attacks on constitutionality of various New Deal measures began last night with a speech by Joseph Shouse, president of the American Liberty league, replying to President Roosevelt's "breath-taking spell" letter to Roy W. Howard.

The administration view will be presented at 7:30 p. m. EST when Secretary of Commerce Daniel C. Roper discusses the constitution at the George Washington Masonic National Memorial at Alexandria, Va.

A movement has been started to have Sept. 17 a national holiday. It is the anniversary of George Washington's farewell address to the nation in 1796, although that event does not figure prominently in today's exercises.

BASEBALL PLAYER KILLED IN FIGHT IN CAREENING AIRPLANE; FLIERS HELD

BULLETIN MIMICO, Ont., Sept. 17.—(UP)—William Joseph Mulqueeny and Irwin Davis, American aviators, pleaded not guilty today when arraigned before Magistrate Douglas Davidson on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the mid-air killing of Len Koenecke, former major league baseball star.

TORONTO, Ont., Sept. 17.—(UP)—Three men waged a hand to hand battle in a pilotless airplane several thousand feet above Toronto early today.

Lon Koenecke, star outfielder of the National baseball league, was killed by Joseph Mulqueeny, the pilot, who said that only by that means did he prevent a crash and the death of all.

Koenecke, depressed by his dismissal from the Brooklyn Dodgers at St. Louis Sunday, arrived intoxicated in Detroit last night. He chartered Mulqueeny's plane to take him to Buffalo and took Irwin Davis, a professional parachute jumper, along as his guest.

Pilot Joins Fight Over Toronto Mulqueeny felt the plane quiver and jerk, though it was a calm night, perfect for flying. He looked back, Koenecke and Davis were flying one another with their fists, jumping around in the narrow, frail cabin.

Mulqueeny screamed commands to halt, Davis stopped, but Koenecke didn't, he told police, who held both him and Davis on a technical charge of manslaughter. He shot the plane up several thousand feet, then left his controls and joined the fight. For a number of minutes the plane jerked about with no hands at its controls. Mulqueeny jerked the fire extinguisher from its rack and brought it down on Koenecke's head.

He then raced back to the controls, leveling the plane off less than a thousand feet above the suburb of New Toronto.

Koenecke Dead When he landed a few minutes later on the Long Branch race track, Koenecke was dead. Police Lieut. G. Joy announced he had been killed by the blow from the fire extinguisher. The plane was damaged slightly in the landing.

Koenecke, an erratic but brilliant performer on the diamond, was 29 years old and had been in professional baseball since 1927. The Giants bought him in 1932 for $75,000 from Indianapolis of the American Association.

"I couldn't do anything else," Mulqueeny told police. "It was a question of three lives or one."

So heavy was the blow of the extinguisher that one side of Koenecke's skull was crushed.

Mulqueeny still was shaken badly when he landed the plane. Davis showed the marks of his fight with the husky athlete known in all the circuits in which he had played as a pugilist, aggressive player. He had been beaten and bitten severely.

The fight started an hour after the plane left Detroit, Mulqueeny said. Koenecke first had sat beside him in the pilot's seat. When he interfered with the piloting, he ordered him into the back seat with Davis. Within a very few minutes the fight was on.

Davis Bitten Mulqueeny said he heard Davis cry out repeatedly in pain when Koenecke sank his teeth into his shoulders and arms. The men were wrestling furiously on the floor of the cabin. It was then, desperate in the knowledge that a few more seconds would wreck the plane, that Mulqueeny left his control and waded in with the fire extinguisher.

The interior of the plane bore evidence of the wild struggle long in the clouds. The floor was spattered with blood. Seat coverings were torn and equipment was wrecked.

"For what seemed like hours, Mulqueeny told me, he sat at his controls and watched Koenecke battle with Davis, a much smaller man than the baseball star," Police Sergeant Kidd told the United Press. "Mulqueeny shouted to the men to stop their fighting or the plane

WIDOW IS SUCCESSFUL IN 2ND TRY

Body Found Early This Morning in Dining Room of Anaheim Home

HEARTBROKEN over the death of her husband on August 23, Mrs. Elizabeth Evans, 42, wife of the late Leonard K. Evans, prominent Anaheim attorney, followed him in death sometime last night.

She killed herself by inhaling illuminating gas from an outlet in the dining room of her home, at 518 North Lemon street, Anaheim. A note was found on the dresser, in her bedroom, stating that she was despondent. Nothing more.

Found By Son The body of Mrs. Evans was found at 7 o'clock today when her young son, Gale, 10, came downstairs for his breakfast. He saw his mother lying on the floor, a tubing connected from the gas outlet under a bathrobe with which she had covered herself. She was completely dressed. The gas was still turned on.

Mrs. Evans had been dead for several hours, according to Bert Castex, deputy coroner, who was called on the case. He said she had placed the tubing in her mouth to inhale the deadly fumes.

The body was removed to the Backs, Terry and Campbell funeral parlors. No inquest will be held, Castex said. No plans for a funeral have been made.

Tried Death Before Completely stunned by the death of her husband, who died following a paralytic stroke at the family home on August 23, two months after he was first taken ill, Mrs. Evans was unable to adjust herself to life without him. It was learned by The Register today she attempted suicide while sitting in her automobile in the family garage. Gale was with her at the time. She and the youth were rescued by the timely arrival of neighbors, who took her unconscious form from the car. The boy too was partly unconscious and the fact that she lived at that time was believed to have been due to the fact that the youth had turned off the motor after the fumes had begun to affect him.

During the past several days Mrs. Evans had seemed to be in better spirits, however. She had just completed a transaction with S. B. Kaufman, district attorney, whereby he was to take over the law practice of her husband, and the announcement of the sale of the practice was made just a few days ago.

Ebelle Leader A resident of Anaheim for many years, Mrs. Evans had been prominent in the social life of the city for many years. She was president of the Anaheim Ebelle club during the year 1932-33 and was very popular in social and civic enterprises in the city.

Besides her son she is survived by her mother, Mrs. Fred Yorn, of Anaheim.

Castex reported that efforts were made to resuscitate her this morning soon after the boy found his mother, but that apparently she had been dead for several hours. The youth rushed next door to the home of Horace Benjamin, Bank of America officer, and notified him of his discovery. Benjamin notified a physician and the authorities.

QUEZON LEADING IN PHILIPPINE VOTING

MANILA, P. I., Sept. 18.—(Wednesday)—(UP)—On the basis of complete returns from Manila city and incomplete returns from 19 provinces, Manuel Quezon, "father of Philippine independence," today maintained a three to one lead over his nearest opponent in the contest for the presidency of the new Philippine commonwealth.

Talibulations gave Quezon 45,662 votes; General Emilio Aguinaldo, 15,390 and Bishop Gregorio Aglipay, 6083.

Quezon's running mate on the coalition ticket, Sergio Osmena, had 53,482 votes in the race for vice-president. Raymond M. Mellisio, Aguinaldo's running mate, had 8,333 votes and Norberto Nabong, on the Aglipay ticket, had 2394 votes.

NEW COMMITTEE TO SEEK CURB ON OIL

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 17.—(UP)—A new emergency advisory committee of seven major and independent producers, taking up where a previous "committee of seven" had failed, undertook today to draft support for a program to curb oil production and buoy a doddering market.

All control over production and market regulation vanished yesterday when the "committee of seven" disbanded after failing to secure the support of 95 per cent of the state's oil operators to the voluntary agreement. The committee had obtained only 82.5 per cent of the required signatures.

Moving quickly into the breach, major and independent producers at a meeting selected the new emergency committee with Ralph B. Lloyd as chairman.

SWISS ENTRY LANDS IN BALLOON RACE

RIGA, Latvia, Sept. 17.—(UP)—The Swiss balloon Zurich, one of the contestants in the 23rd James Gordon Bennett International Balloon race, landed about 15 miles north of here last night.

The first reported landing of a contestant was that of the German Deutschland. After a flight of approximately 350 miles it came to earth about 25 miles west of Riga.

The remainder of the balloons in the race supposedly are still aloft, probably over Soviet territory.

DOLLAR WHEAT CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—(UP)—One dollar per bushel wheat was reached on the Chicago Board of Trade today when May delivery sold at $1.00 for 2 3-8 cents advance.

It was a new high for the crop.

WETHERELL SCORES FRENCH

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 17.—(UP)—Giving A. Martin-Legay of France a terrific battle, Lewis Wetherell of Santa Ana, Cal., laid stage-fright rob him of the opportunity to stage an upset today in the Pacific Southwest tennis tournament. He lost 7-5, 7-8, to the French star, fourth seeded foreigner, after muffing opportunities to win point-set several times.

dent Herbert Hoover in an address here today.

A large constitution day crowd heard Hoover speak at the National Constitution Exposition.

Urging a defense of the bill of rights of the national constitution, the former chief executive said:

Defends Rights

"Today the constitution is under stronger discussion than since the civil war, in which the issue was Negro slavery. Today the issue is the rights of the individual.

"In the hurricane of revolutions which have swept the world since the war, men, struggling in the wreckage and poverty brought by that catastrophe and complications of the machine age, are in despair surrendering their freedom for false promises of economic security.

"Whether it be fascist Italy, Nazi Germany or communist Russia, the result is the same. Every day they have repudiated every principle of the bill of rights, with speech, press, worship and criticism censored, and men sent to jail for uttering their honest opinions."

"Fundamental Clash" facing the United States and the constitution, he declared that "this is the most fundamental clash known to mankind. It involves . . . the issue of the rights of the individual in relation to his government.

"If for no other reason, this discussion (of the constitution), is forced on us by new philosophies, new theories of government which have arisen, denying the validity of our principles.

"Our constitution is not alone a working plan of a great federation of states, but has embodied in it vital principles of the American system of liberty, based on inalienable freedom that not even the government can infringe upon.

"They are called the 'bill of rights,' which, as clear as the ten commandments, include freedom of worship, freedom against unreasonable search, security against deprivation of life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness without due process. These are the principles that distinguish our civilization."

POSTPONE FLIGHT FOR PHILATELISTS

NEW YORK, Sept. 16.—(UP)—A trail blazing 6500 mile flight across the Pacific to Guam, originally scheduled to start Monday has been postponed two weeks by the Pan-American Airways system to allow "first flight" mail collectors time to prepare special cachets and get them aboard the Giant Clipper in San Francisco.

The flight, now scheduled for Sept. 23, will be the same four motored Amphibian which made three exploratory flights over the Pacific of Honolulu, Midway Island, and Wake Island. It will be the first flight ever made to Guam and is the final test run before the opening of regular service on the 9000 mile route.

KILLED IN AIR

Len Koenecke, below, former Brooklyn baseball player, was killed in a terrific hand-to-hand battle in an airplane over Toronto early today.

MOONEY DOES NOT EXPECT HIS FREEDOM

"I'd have every hope of being vindicated. But the attorney general (Deputy Attorney General William F. Clegg) said at Baltimore that he would endeavor to put everything possible into this case.

"If nothing but the preparedness day bombing was introduced this case would be over in three weeks. But the state has no legal case against me, so I expect it will try to introduce about everything from the Haymarket riots, which occurred about the time I was born, to San Francisco's general strike.

Wide Scope

"They will bring in all my so-called radical activities. Maybe they'll even blame me for the Ethiopian situation. The effort will be to confuse the public on the real issues before this hearing. If such an effort is allowed, it won't be a legal, judicial hearing at all.

Asked if he would seek a commutation or parole from Governor Frank P. Merriam in the event the federal supreme court also denies his freedom, Mooney exclaimed: "Never!"

James B. Holohan, warden of San Quentin, and two prison guards accompanied the police detail escorting Mooney across the bay.

William J. Quinn, chief of police, today detailed 50 uniformed and plainclothes officers to patrol the hall of justice and nearby streets during the hearing to prevent demonstrations.

BREAD PRICES TO RISE

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—(UP)—Coinciding with a rise in wheat prices in all world markets, leaders of the baking industry today predicted increased bread prices and a possible reduction in the quality of wheat loaves because of the domestic grain situation.

Despite recent completion of the 1935 harvest, good wheat for bread-making is difficult to obtain and supplies from now on until the next harvest will be wholly inadequate, the bakers said.

would crash but neither seemed to hear him.

Grim Fight

"Koenecke and Davis rolled over the floor of the plane, their combined weight swinging the ship from side to side. Koenecke was growling and sinking his teeth into Davis' flesh. The smaller man, Mulqueeny told me, fought to stave off the larger man's attack.

"From time to time, Mulqueeny told me, he got up and left his controls to separate the two men, but was forced to leap back to the pilot seat when the plane nosed earthwards dangerously near crashing.

"The fight had been going on for what we figure to have been about an hour when the two fighting men rolled toward the nose of the ship. The plane lurched crazily.

"Mulqueeny said he reached out with one hand while he kept the plane on a level keel with the other, grabbed a heavy fire extinguisher and smashed Koenecke over the head."

For some time after the fight, Davis lay exhausted on the floor of the plane while Mulqueeny righted the plane.

SHOUSE ATTACKS ROOSEVELT LETTER

WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—(UP)—President Roosevelt's "breathing spell" letter to Publisher Roy W. Howard merely promised an intermission from "this mad orgy" of expending and a "temporary suspension of his war of (business) extermination," Jouett Shouse, president of the American Liberty League, charged in a speech last night.

Quoting Heywood Brown, columnist, Shouse described the recent interchange of letters between the president and the Scripps-Howard executive as a "daisy chain," and hinted that Mr. Roosevelt would be defeated for re-election unless he changed his policies.

Whether Mrs. Rose Mary Budlong, formerly Mrs. Joseph Maag, and her son, Richard Joseph Maag, were responsible for blocking flood waters on their Santa Ana canyon ranch so that the water broke over an arroyo bank and washed through the citrus grove of their neighbors, Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Visel, was a question being threshed out yesterday and today before Superior Judge George K. Scovel, who is hearing the $4456 damage suit brought by Visel and his wife, Holly Lash Visel, well known musician.

The Visels charge that their neighbor, Mrs. Budlong, caused such obstructions as barbed wire, chicken wire, rocks, dirt, posts and brush to be placed in the arroyo, so that when a heavy rain occurred last October 15 the storm waters broke over the bank of the arroyo and swept across the Visel soil, washing the surface soil away from six rows of trees. They estimated that 5600 cubic yards of soil were thus removed.

They asked $3675 damages for the loss of this top soil, $672 additional, for bean straw they used to cover the exposed tree roots, and $105 expended for fertilizer in an effort to replenish the nitrogen in the soil, washed out by the storm waters.

Attorney Thomas E. Pickrell, of Santa Ana, represents the Visels in the action. Attorneys McFadden and Holden, of Anaheim, appearing for the defense.

Mrs. M. B. Wellington heads the group of more than 400 Santa Ana women who are handling the residential phase of the chest campaign, and will be in charge of picking the committee to head the delegation.

Santa Ana today was invited by President James R. Page, of the Los Angeles Community chest, to send a delegation. The first lady's subject will be "Meeting Human Needs Unmet by Government."

Mrs. Roosevelt is coming to Los Angeles in her official capacity of chairman of the National Woman's committee, which is organized to encourage active participation of women in local welfare activities throughout the country.

Distinguished visitors invited to occupy the platform with Mrs. Roosevelt are the California members of the National Women's committee, as follows: Mrs. Herbert Hoover, vice chairman; Mrs. Marcus C. Sloss, San Francisco, state organization chairman; Dr. Aurelia H. Reinhardt, president of Mills college, and Mrs. Albert Crutcher, president of the children's hospital, Los Angeles.

MISSING CASHIER SWINDLE CASE KEY

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—(UP)—Roy J. Frisch, missing cashier of the now defunct Riverside bank, Reno, Nev., was the real "keystone" of a swindling ring which mulcted 70 victims of $2,000,000, it was charged today in closing arguments in the mail fraud trial of William J. Graham and Charles C. McKay, Reno gambling impresarios.

John H. Taaffe, chief of defense counsel, turned on the vanished Frisch as an arch swindler. He charged that Frisch, not Graham and McKay whom he portrayed as honest family men, was in league with a hunch ring which lured victims to Reno. He also said Frisch used his illicit profits to liquidate bad bank accounts.

PRESIDENT PLANS JOURNEY TO COAST

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sept. 17.—(UP)—President Roosevelt was occupied today with mapping the itinerary of his western trip. He plans to leave Hyde Park Sept. 24.

The route to be taken is yet to be worked out. Whether he would proceed by the northern, middle or southern route no one would say. Speculation favored the course through the big cities of the farm belt, thence to Boulder dam where he will dedicate that great engineering feat and move on to San Diego, Calif., to inspect the exposition.

Conditions permitting, Mr. Roosevelt hopes to board a cruiser in California for the homeward trip via the Panama canal.

INVESTIGATE FIRE STARTED IN STORE

Sheriffs officers were today investigating a fire of incendiary origin at the grocery store owned by A. Hernandez, at La Jolla, near Placentia, after kerosene cans were found at the place the fire was started.

One man, Tomas Salinas, was taken into custody last night and questioned, later being released when Hernandez refused to sign a complaint against him.

Officers questioned him after they found kerosene on the toe of one of his shoes, they declared.

According to officers' reports, Baltazar Anda, who resides near the store, saw the fire from his bedroom window. He hurriedly dressed and put the fire out, then notified the Hernandez family. Officers were called and the soaked rags were found. Deputies declared they had found no motive for the crime. The damage amounted to only $5.

ALLEGED THIEF IN MOVE FOR FREEDOM

Thomas Martin, arrested here several weeks ago in connection with the theft of clothing from the Famous Department store here, was taken to San Bernardino today by G. F. McKelvey, deputy sheriff, for appearance in the appellate court.

He seeks freedom in the court there on a writ of habeas corpus.

McKelvey was armed with a petty theft warrant for Martin's arrest, in case the writ was granted. They were expected back here late today.

COUNCIL NOTES

Application of N. C. Severance to operate a skating rink in the old Santa Ana auditorium building at 604½ West Fourth street, was approved by the city council last night, after members of the council reported that it had been operated satisfactorily under a temporary license during the past week.

It was brought out that a new city ordinance which would concern skating rinks was now being drawn by the city attorney and that Severance was now conforming with the rules and regulations the new ordinance would contain.

Application of D. T. Kenyon of Tustin and C. R. Stauffer of Santa Ana, representing the "Jehovah's Witnesses," a religious organization, formerly known as the International Bible Students, to operate a sound truck in Santa Ana, was referred to the police commissioner, the chief of police and the city attorney for action. Kenyon stated that the plan was to drive to various parts of the city, park the truck and conduct 15 minute programs via microphone and loud speaker.

A letter received by the council from Dan Mulherson, of the WPA, announced that the city's proposed project of installing guards at the schools here, had been denied, in that the WPA considered the project "normal city government."

Emmett, who recently rented the Veterans' hall, home of the Santa Ana American Legion, to stage public dances on Saturday nights, was granted permission of the council to conduct the business after a member of the council, together with Chief of Police Floyd W. Howard and City Attorney Lew Blodgett, reported an investigation has been made and that the arrangements were satisfactory. The first dance was held Saturday night, on a special permit.

O. J. Area appeared before the council and asked the council's permission to sell group insurance to the city employees who desired it, the city to deduct the premiums from the employees' checks on their order. The matter was referred to a committee composed of Lloyd Banks, city auditor, Mayor Fred W. Rowland and City Attorney Lew Blodgett.

Application of Jack Felton to open a used car market at 212-14 East First street, on the southwest corner of First street and Orange avenue, was approved by the council last night after it had been recommended by the city planning commission.

BARRYMORE SETTLEMENT
LOS ANGELES, Sept. 17.—(UP)—Dolores Costello probably will obtain a "harmony divorce" from John Barrymore, it appeared today when it was announced that the actor has signed a property settlement.

Terms of the agreement were not divulged but as a result, it was expected that he would not contest the divorce suit in which his actress-wife charged him with cruelty and habitual intemperance.

COMMITTEE ALARMED
(Copyright, 1935, by United Press) GENEVA, Sept. 17.—(UP)—Reports of fighting on the Italian-Ethiopian frontier caused convocation today of an urgent meeting of the committee of five nations named by the league council to seek a compromise in Europe's gravest post-war crisis.

The reports reached the League of Nations executive headquarters last night. They were indefinite and were not verified.

The rains which have held back the fascist legions massed on the frontiers of Eritrea and Italian Somaliland must end soon, and then the zero hour for a mass attack is certain.

Advance Meeting Hour
Alarm lest the first shots of a war had been fired was so acute that Salvador de Madariaga, of Spain, chairman of the committee of five, moved up the hour of meeting set for this afternoon.

The committee was to receive from a sub-committee a 12-point plan of conciliation to be submitted to Italy and Ethiopia. Nobody believes Benito Mussolini will respond with anything but a curt "no" to the plan. But aroused to the danger of a European war and determined to spare no possible effort to liquidate a grave crisis, the committee of five proceeded.

Because of the gravity of the situation, the committee has decided to study the plan in minute detail before sending it to Italy and Ethiopia. When the plan is submitted, Italy and Ethiopia will be given a week in which to accept or reject it.

In addition to providing an international police force for Ethiopia, providing for foreign advisers to Emperor Haile Selassie I and giving Italy broad economic and territorial concessions, the plan says that Italy would be given a 60 per cent interest.

ROME, Sept. 17.—(UP)—More than 10,000,000 men, women and children awaited today Benito Mussolini's call for a test mobilization of the national strength designed to warn Europe that he will brook no opposition to his ambitions in Ethiopia.

Nearly every man and boy capable of walking, and hundreds of thousands of women will respond at some moment within the next few days to a call which the Fascist press says, will find the entire nation facing Eritrea with the same common determination that guides Mussolini's policy, calmly and confidently eager to demonstrate the unity and strength which symbolizes the Fascist state.

PARIS, Sept. 17.—(UP)—An implied threat to throw Italy's weight to the side of Germany and other nations stripped of territory in the World war was contained today in an interview with Benito Mussolini in the newspaper Matin.

Mussolini bluntly charged Great Britain with bad faith and with having concealed motives in its opposition to Italy's Ethiopian course.

FOUR KILLED IN GALE OFF ENGLAND

LONDON, Sept. 17.—(UP)—The most savage hurricane in the memory of modern mariners was ravaging the southern coasts of England and Ireland today, raging through the English channel and across the Bay of Biscay.

Four persons, including the captain of the steamer Brompton Manor, were reported dead. Nineteen thousand phone lines have been disrupted, including $410 in London.

Distressed ships, perilously battered by mountainous seas piled up by a 100-mile-an-hour gale, were sending out SOS calls all along a path of destruction over more than 500 miles of crowded ship lanes.

7-MONTHS-OLD BOY HAS NEVER EATEN

MARLBORO, N. Y., Sept. 17.—(UP)—Bobby Linsig, the boy who has never eaten a mouthful of food in his life, is seven months old today.

A roly-poly, in perfect health, Bobby grinned cheerfully, displaying three teeth which so far have been of no use to him. He was born without an esophagus and his been fed through an incision in his abdomen since birth.

He weighs 19 pounds, two ounces, plays and gurgles and yells just as lustily as any normal baby. His physician, Dr. Barton Harris, says he is normal in every respect but the passage from his mouth to his stomach.

Neville, who entertained men in her home, he alleged, while her husband was on duty in the Huntington Beach oil fields between 4 p. m. and midnight. PROCEEDINGS FOR SEA WALL STARTED

NEWPORT BEACH, Sept. 17.—
Legal proceedings for the construction of a sea wall around Balboa island, the construction of five concrete piers and the rearrangement of ornamental lights were taken by the Newport Beach city council last night. The council filed application for a 45 per cent grant for the project some time ago.

The vote of island residents as to their preference to two plans suggested showed that 118 favored plan No. 1 and 231 plan No. 2, while 208 residents expressed opposition to any plans for a sea wall. Over the protests of Coun-cillman Lloyd Claire, who declared that the council had agreed to abide by the result of the vote,
the board voted to adopt plan No.
1, adding the pier feature of plan
No. 2.

The cost of the first plan was estimated at $168,000, with the grant amounting to $75,000, the cost to the district being placed at $93,000. Plan No. 2 was estimated to cost $223,000, with the grant amounting to $100,000 and the cost to the district $123,000.

Under plan No. 1, the cost for a 30-foot bay front lot was estimated at $177, with $44 for an inside
lot. For plan No. 2, the cost to owners of 30 foot bay fronts lots would be $206, with $48 for inside lots.

County Teachers Institute, which will be held in the Orange High

Technical Institute.
Dr. Millikan will be the principal speaker at the closing session of the institute Friday evening, October 11, according to the program announced today by Ray Adkinson, county superintendent of schools.
The institute will open Thursday evening, October 10, with the appearance of Dr. Harold Beem, who will give an illustrated talk on Abyssinia. Because of the present war crisis in that country, this program feature is expected to prove of unusual interest.

Double Session
A double session of the institute is scheduled for Friday morning.
The first will be marked by an address on educational and social progress by Dr. Sydney B. Raubenheimer, of U. S. C. Following this session there will be a short session addressed by Letitia Lytle, president of the California P. T. A. and member of the Los Angeles county board of education.

On Friday afternoon there will be a panel session, with round table discussion of school problems led by Dr. Harold Curtis Hand and Dr. Howard Hanna, both of Stanford university. City Superintendent
Frank A. Henderson, of Santa Ana, also will participate in the panel.

The institute will be concluded with Dr. Millikan's address Friday evening.
There are approximately 1200 teachers in the county, most of whom will attend the institute, it was said.

"I SUFFERED WITH CONSTIPATION" FOR SIXTEEN YEARS"

Then ALL-BRAN Brought
Relief to Mr. McNeil

We quote from his unsolicited letter: "I suffered with constipation" for 16 years. Finally, I started using Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in connection with other nourishing foods.

"I consider myself a well man at this time, not having had an attack for over two years. I am sure ALL-BRAN helped wonderfully by overcoming constipation."—Mr. L. M.
McNeil, Lockwood, W. Va.

"Constipation due to insufficient
"bulk" in meals.

Tests show Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides gentle "bulk" to aid elimination. Also vitamin B and iron.

This "bulk" resists digestion better than the fiber in fruits and vegetables, so it is more effective.

Isn't this food safer than risking patent medicines? Two tablespoonfuls of ALL-BRAN daily are usually sufficient. If seriously constipated, use with each meal. See your doctor, if you do not get relief.

Use as a cereal with milk or cream, or in cooking. Sold by all grocers. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

BANDS TO PLAY ON STREETS ON S. A. HOSPITALITY NIGHT

With the engagement of both the Boy Scout and Municipal bands to play Thursday night in free street concerts, arrangements today were virtually completed for the big fall fashion preview, style show and hospitality night to be sponsored by Santa Ana merchants, it was announced today by Walter Swanberger, chairman of the committee in charge of entertainment.

Fully 10,000 visitors from all parts of the county are expected to be in Santa Ana for the event, in which the merchants of the city will play host to the entire county.

Plans call for individual entertainment features to be held at each store in the downtown district in addition to styles and fashions previews. Every effort will be extended, Swanberger said, in making the event a pleasurable one for every city visitor.

He urged today that county residents remember that they are invited to come, bring their families and friends, and spend an enjoyable evening as the guest of the merchants of the city.

Stores will be open from 7 to 9:30 o'clock during the evening, and while merchandise will not be sold, there will be opportunity for everyone to get an advance view of what will be worn and displayed this winter.

Every indication, chairmen say,
points to a more successful hospitality night than ever before.

RESIGNS POST

Pictured below is Robert Hatfield, for the past seven months secretary-manager of the Orange County Builders Exchange, who today resigned, effective September 1.

Robert Hatfield, for the past seven

Orange County Builders Exchange, today tendered his resignation to the board of directors of the Exchange, to be effective October 1.

Hatfield, who assumed the office
following the resignation of Fred Sanford, is retiring in order to enter business for himself, in Fullerton.
His plans for the future were not divulged today.

The resignation will not become effective until Tuesday night, when the board of directors will meet to consider it. While Hatfield asked to be relieved of his duties on September 1, he announced today that he would probably stay on until the fifteenth of the month, in order to help his successor take over.

No appointment will be made to fill his place, President Therman announced today.

ESTIMATE 1934-35 VALENCIA CROP AT 26,950,000 BOXES

Orange county citrus growers today were interested in a report released by the Federal-State Crop Reporting Service at the State Department of Agriculture which estimated that the 1934-35 Valencia orange crop, still being harvested in Southern California, will amount to 26,950,000 boxes.

The 26,950,000 box forecast compares with the total production in 1933-34 of 16,465,000 boxes, and 19,324,000 boxes of the 1932-33 crop.

This estimate includes the total production and it is not probable that the entire crop will be harvested as some "tree loss" has already occurred.

The 1934-35 grapefruit crop of the state, the harvest of which is nearing completion, was estimated at 2,167,000 boxes in a preliminary report made by Statistician R.
E. Blair. That figure compares with total production of 1,713,000 boxes for the 1933-34 crop and 1-350,000 boxes for the 1932-33 crop.

Concerning the set of the new crop of grapefruit, Blair said reports support a forecast of 2,318-000 boxes. The 1935-36 Arizona grapefruit crop is now forecast at 2,160,000 boxes.

It is expected that the present
officers will succeed themselves, inasmuch as this is a special election to comply with newly adopted regulations of the state department of D.A.V.

V. L. Brown, post commander, expects a large attendance, as attractive features for the coming season will be submitted and discussed, and a resume of the legislative program will be undertaken.

Denies Applicant For Library Post

Mona Summers Smith, whose name has been prominently mentioned as the successor to Miss Jeannette McFadden for the position of librarian at the Carnegie Library here, told The Register today that she was not an applicant for the office.

She declared that she had never been an applicant and that the library board knew that she did not seek the position.

Means intimated today, until applicants for the position have been interviewed by the board.

ing year will feature the meeting

War, tomorrow evening at the officers will succeed themselves,

today. He will talk on America's

MAN KIDNAPS BABY NEPHEW MAY BE FREED

Deputy sheriffs were faced with an unusual situation today—they have a man in jail charged with kidnaping his 15-months old nephew but from information obtained chances are that he will not be prosecuted.

Mrs. Felix Avalos, of Stanton, reported to the sheriff last night that while she was visiting friends in the neighborhood, her brother, Gregorio Avalos, 42, came to her house and kidnaped the baby.

Deputy Sheriffs John Ryan and
A. W. Fullerton went to her home and she led them to the home of Avalos at Los Alamitos. In bed with Avalos and his wife was the baby. The mother took it and the officers took Avalos, lodging him in the county jail on a charge of kidnaping.

Avalos' story was so unique today however, that he doubtless will not be prosecuted.

He declared that his brother
Felix is in the county jail serving a term for possession of marijuana. He went by his brother's house to see how the family was faring and the baby was crying and no one was there. So, he picked up the baby and took it home.

— News Behind the News —

NEW YORK
By James McMullan

PERTINENT

Here are inside angles on two leading Republican presidential possibilities as reported by well-placed New York sources.

As recently as three months ago Colonel Frank Knox told former Senator James E. Watson that he was not a candidate. Knox knows he cannot get the Illinois delegation because he is a former Bull Moose and because of the terrific fight he made on former Governor Len Small of Illinois when the latter was trying to stage a comeback. He has also been told he would have trouble carrying the delegation from his native state of New Hampshire because of the bitter scrap he once had with ex-Senator Gallinger.

New York rates it a pertinent question whether any candidate can get far without the support of either his native or his adopted state.

POTENTIAL

Months ago certain influential New Yorkers of the financial crowd had their eye on Senator L. J. Dickinson of Iowa. They wanted to meet him and asked a former U. S. senator to arrange a dinner so they could look him over at close range.

Two days before the scheduled dinner Dickinson voted for the soldiers' bonus. His prospective backers called the former senator and told him to cancel everything—they weren't interested in anyone who would go for the bonus at this time. A little later the intermediary ran across Dickinson and reproached him for taking a stand on the bonus which would ruin his chances for the presidency.

Dickinson replied that he was only a potential candidate for senator but a real candidate for senator from Iowa—and the soldier votes count out there. Political observers now believe—with payment of the bonus assured early next year—that Dickinson's support of it will be disregarded in considering him as a candidate and will help him if he is nominated.

UNCLUBBY

It was true—as so many smart speculators figured to their own undoing—that negotiations were almost completed last week for New York City to take over the private transit lines. Brokers were given apparently unimpeachable tips that this was the case—and they and their favored customers went into action accordingly.

Then along came ex-brain-truster J. A. Berle Jr. and gummed the parade for fair. First he blocked the agreement itself because he thought it was far too liberal to present owners of the subway and elevated lines. On top of that he raised a terrific noise about inside manipulation of transit stocks—which immediately went into a tailspin that left the easy money seekers out on a limb.

Berle was used to the stock exchange advisory council last year at the suggestion of members who thought it would be well to convert a real live brain-truster to the idea that the exchange is really on the up-and-up and can manage its own affairs to perfection. Mr. Berle got on fine with the boys and they thought he was sold—especially on the point that market rigging is no longer possible. They think his behavior about this transit matter is downright unclubby after all the "education" they gave him.

PRACTICED

The transit stocks are especially tempting meat to shrewd professional operators. The city is forever talking about unification. Every time it does so rumors get around—which makes it simpler for a smart "rigger" to induce the public to bite. It's a sad state of affairs to spread such rumors—but try to prove who started them.

The recent increase in volume of trading has lured a number of old-time speculative wizards and skilled manipulators back into the market. They aren't so afraid of getting caught when there's so much going on. Transit securities aren't the only ones whose action of late indicates revival of the come-on racket designed to trap unwary suckers.

Chrysler and Radio corporation—for instance—have registered fluctuations which strongly imply a practiced hand at the helm. It remains to be seen whether the string pullers can be smoked out.

NIGHTMARES

Wall Street was much intrigued with the news that the Van Everens plan to bid for control of their own former empire when their forfeited collateral is auctioned off by J. P. Morgan & Co. acting on behalf of a group of banks. Insiders say this can only mean that they have found a new financial backer—as otherwise they would have nothing to bid with but their own voices. The wonder is—New York—that anyone would be willing to stake them again. Certainly none of the banks now involved intend to do so. Odium of Atlas corporation is one man likely to step into the situation.

If they do bid they will probably get what they're after. The only competitor in sight is Lenor F. Loeve of Delaware and Hudson and he's not certain. It would be a masterpiece of irony if the Van Everens—perfect examples of the Old Deal philosophy in action—should make a comeback at this stage.

One thing sure—J. P. Morgan & Co. will not bid in the defaulted collateral itself. The firm has had quite enough of Van Everens-Allegheeny nightmares and will be all too happy to get rid of them permanently.

PILL

President Gay of the New York stock exchange recently commented in a speech on the increased social consciousness of business leaders. He attributed it to the effects of the World war and to improved means of communication.

New York observers wryly remark that he might at least have tipped his hat to the New Deal. They are cynical enough to doubt that the factors mentioned by Mr. Gay would have made any difference whatever had it not been for the continuous cracking of FDR's whip over the heads of those who would have much preferred to go on thinking solely in terms of profits.

Big industry has never swallowed a bitter pill than the realization that sometimes the destinies of the country are steered by popular vote instead of by the power of money.

SIDELIGHTS

Undersecretary of the Treasury Jeff Coolidge won't be chairman of the new federal reserve board.

CAUTIONS

Circumstances surrounding the Roosevelt-Hull demand for full adherence to world peace treaties make the experts suspect that it was a sort of "Me too" utterance. It fell like an echo as well as a summary of our long-distance moves for peaceful solution of the Italo-Ethiopian dispute.

When Secretary Hull saw the press at 10:30 in the morning, he expressed no official comment on Samuel Hoar's warning that Great Britain might fight, if need be, to make Mussolini behave. Then the news editions brought word that Premier Laval of France had backed the British stand in a stirring speech at Geneva. It was not until the breakup of the Italo-French alliance seemed imminent that Mr. Hull called in the correspondents for an emergency press conference and distributed his formal statement.

Mr. Hull showed that he had profited from the experience of predecessor Henry L. Stimson in the Manchurian affair. The United States stepped out as an orphan guardian of world peace that time and neared the brink of war with Japan before we realized that Britain & Co. were not following us. So now Uncle Sam serves as a private in the parliamentary army of the nations.

GRAVE

The Hoar-Laval-Hull crack-down has had a behind-the-scenes effect at Washington which may prove as strategic as events at Geneva. Trade and diplomatic and military experts are divulging secrets—off-the-record—which may eventually influence American and world opinion.

These indicate that Il Duce needs a foreign war to avert serious domestic trouble—and possibly internal conflicts. He has invoked emergency measures which shock our observers, and only the fact that he has done them piecemeal conceals their significance. He has reduced corporate dividends to a maximum of 6 per cent, expropriated all surpluses and required Italian subjects to cash foreign securities for payment in lire. The inflationary trend is partly offset by increased industrial activity now, but if production sags for lack of a war Italy will be in a dire state economically.

The choice of Ethiopia was unfortunate, says the experts. Their information reveals that it is not as rich in resources as Mussolini claims, and that climatic and topographical difficulties make exploitation both impossible and unprofitable. Il Duce would never get his bait back.

SHUNTED

Although George Hanson's suicide on the high seas seemed to be entirely unrelated to great international moves, it casts new light on events affecting Washington, Moscow and Tokyo. It seems to bear out suggestions that the abrupt note to Russia about communistic activities was dictated by President Roosevelt rather than Secretary Hull.

Hanson was one of the ablest men in the foreign service. Stationed for many years in the Orient, he knew the habits of despots and diplomats of all nations. His confidential reports proved invaluable when Japan was pushing her troops into Manchurian fastnesses a few years ago. As promotion he was transferred to Addis Ababa when Italy and Ethiopia clashed. But en route he was shunted to Salonika and he died a broken-hearted man.

What happened was this: While speaking at an executive session of the American Russian Chamber of Commerce in New York he criticized certain policies of the Soviet. He simply repeated the charges which Mr. Roosevelt made in his note to Moscow a few weeks ago. But for this offense he was deprived of his promotion and sent to the diplomatic hole of Salonika. Thus Mr. Hull disciplined him for setting forth Mr. Roosevelt's views. It is understood that certain banking interests once hostile but now friendly to the Soviet forwarded his off-the-record remarks to the state department.

JEOPARDY

World war veterans are set to stage an anti-New Deal field day this month unless politically minded counselors can smooth out their grievances. The Veterans of Foreign Wars got their hammers out yesterday and the American Legion will resolve at St. Louis the 25th of this month. The vets are enraged over the deaths of their comrades during the recent Key hurricane. They brand the Williams-James report as a "whitewash" and have conducted their own investigations through Florida representatives. Extremists propose condemnation of the handling of the 1935 bonus army. They may also denounce legislation barring vets with peace-time ailments from government hospitals, especially as injured CCC boys receive such care. They have heard that many beds in federal institutions are occupied by CCC-ers.

Administration will have defenders at both assemblies. Their backstage advice will be to go easy on criticism lest it jeopardize the political gentlemen's agreement under which congress will enact the bonus next January—even over a veto.

PRECEDENT?

New Deal textile investigators are patting themselves on the back over their success in checking imports of cheap competing goods from Japan. So far it is the only achievement of the subcommittee named by the president to look into the industry's problems.

It was impossible to negotiate a formal treaty with Tokyo because original production costs are so low that diplomatic dickering was out of the question. Other nations would have kicked or taken advantage of the terms accorded to the Japanese. But after a few private talks Nippon graciously agreed to exercise self-restraint. Under a "gentleman's agreement" the Japanese government imposes a quota on the amount of goods its manufacturers may ship to the United States.

Japan's acquiescence is more significant than appears on the surface. For years we permitted immigration of Japanese under the same kind of a "gentleman's agreement." Then, in 1924, we barred them by statute, thereby affronting the sensitive orientals. Question: Is Japan simply turning the other cheek or will she eventually cite her conduct now as an example for us to follow with respect to repeal of our immigration laws?

NOTES

'SHOWDOWN' ON BOWLING GREEN ASKED OF CITY

Intimating that the city council was against accepting the proposed bowling green offered by the Santa Ana 20-30 Club and asking for a "showdown" from the board, a letter last night was read to the council from the officers of the club which ended: "Will you please state your reasons for not wishing to accept this project so that other organizations of a progressive nature will know what the attitude of the city council will be?"

The council quickly named a committee to call on the officers of the club and to inform them that due to the fact that the ground was not ready, due to a fill that has to be made, according to one councilman, and due to the fact that S.E.R.A. labor is not now available the delay has been unavoidable.

The letter to the council pointed out that the club had been trying to give the project to the city for the past 10 months; that Santa Ana was the only city of its size in California that did not have a bowling green of this type; that the bowling green of this type; that the taining.

The letter charged that the council had "tossed" the proposition from "one committee to another" referring it to the planning commission and back again; and that the money for materials had been raised and was waiting action. In brief, the 20-30 club wanted to know what the city was going to do about it.

Councilman Layton admitted that the council had been in a hurry in accepting the bowling green, stating that an attempt had been made to coordinate it into some park plan and at the same time stating that it would not interfere with any park plan that was advanced, in that it could be turned into tennis courts at any time or some other form of entertainment. Councilman Joe P. Smith said the council was waiting to see what the WPA would do. The council committee, made up of council members, will doubtless call on the 20-30 club officers this week.

Architect Comes Back to Santa Ana

Faye R. Spangler, for many years a practicing architect in this city, has returned after some four years spent in northern California, and contemplates opening offices here again in the near future. He is at present at 642 North Parton street, and will decide upon a business location in the near future. "There seems to have been an unusual increase in building activities during the past four years," Spangler said today, commenting upon the many new buildings in the business district of the city.

BANDMASTER

Julian D. Mathews, below, of the Music Conservatory, who today offered young students of wind instruments an opportunity to become owners of instruments while taking a course of lessons.

Musically-minded young people who plan to begin the study of wind instruments this fall will have the opportunity to come into possession of a trombone, cornet or other instrument while engaging in a course of lessons. It was announced today by Julian D. Mathews, faculty member of the Music Conservatory.

Each student who enrolls for a course of 50 lessons with Mathews, has his choice of a standard saxophone, trombone, trumpet, cornet or clarinet which he may take home after the first lesson. At the completion of the course, the student automatically becomes owner of the instrument, which he obtains at no cost other than the regular lesson charge, it was explained.

Mathews, who is a bandmaster and teacher of wind instruments, maintains his studio at 813 North Ross street. The teaching method which he uses is known as the non pressure method, and has been developed by Mathews after years of experience in teaching and studying, it was said.

SERVICE FLEET OF AUTO CLUB COMES TO CITY

Eight members of the modernized motorcycle service patrol fleet of the Automobile Club of Southern California visited Santa Ana yesterday on a demonstration tour to district offices of the club. The group was part of a fleet of 40 which will patrol Southern California highways as a service to motorists.

Duties of the patrolmen include giving emergency first aid to persons injured in accidents, making minor mechanical repairs, warning motorists of road hazards, posting emergency detour of "road-closed" signs, giving road information, removing broken glass from highways, making accident investigations with the aim of remedying faulty road conditions, and offering any and all help to distressed motorists.

A large rear compartment of the motorcycle units is completely equipped with tools, emergency rations of gasoline, oil and water, fire extinguisher, first aid kit, signs, maps, flares, red and white flashlights, and other accessories.

REUNION PLANNED BY WAR DIVISION

Former members of the Pine Tree, or 91st Division in the World war will hold their regular annual re-union at Patriotic Hall in Los Angeles September 28, with probably a score or more of Orange county members present, it was learned today.

The days of "Powder River, let 'er buck" will be recalled when hundreds of former members of the division from California, Utah, Oregon, Washington, Idaho and Montana meet to recall stories of

GIVES VERSION OF ATTACK ON BOY BY MONKEY

Resenting recent published statements of William Rittenmeyer, of Laguna Beach, owner of a monkey which seriously bit 3-year-old William Holt, Mrs. Jessie Holt, the child's mother today issued a statement disputing Rittenmeyer's version of the incident. Her statement follows:

"Mr. Rittenmeyer stated that the monkey was small; that the baby approached the monkey and squeezed it, and the monkey bit him in self defense. He said, further, that the baby had at other times come to his place and squeezed his dogs and his cat.

"I wish to state that the baby had never seen his cat and had not annoyed his dogs.

Claims Was A Baboon

"As for the monkey, it was not a small monkey. It was as tall as the baby, according to the officer who shot it, and, according to the doctor who examined its brain, was not a monkey at all, but a baboon. As for the baby holding it and squeezing it, not even a full grown man could have held that baboon, with its long, sharp tusks of teeth.

"The only authentic witness to the attack was Kenneth Miller, aged 9, a neighbor, who was with the baby at the time. He said that they were not near the baboon, but that it jumped out of the brush and attacked the baby. This was corroborated by Mrs. Jane Miller and Mrs. Brown. Mrs. Miller beat the monkey, or baboon, away with a club. The baboon had escaped from its cage.

"As to the gentle disposition of the 'monkey,' I happen to know that it killed a dog last spring, and the owner of the dog was paid damages. I also am informed Mr. Rittenmeyer himself was in fear of the animal."

The boy was released from the hospital Sunday.

France and their adventures in Belgium. The meeting will start at noon to be followed by a reception, a big show and dinner. It was announced by George Dykes, president of the 91st Division association.

Inspector To Devise New Parking Plan

William Garland, license inspector in the city clerk's office will work two days each week among the merchants of the city attempting to devise some plan where employees of downtown stores keep their cars from parking stalls along the busy streets in the downtown section of the city, the city council was informed last night by Councilman Ernest Layton.

This was in connection with a plan suggested at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce several weeks ago when ways and means were discussed to relieve the parking situation on downtown streets.

"The chamber of commerce asked for a full time man, but Garland is to work only two days each week," Layton declared. He then turned to a representative of The Register at the council meeting and raising his voice several degrees, fairly shouted—"This is in the interest of economy."

Garland will work without police powers, his work having nothing to do with the work being carried on concerning parking by the police department.

Open World Series In Detroit Oct. 2

NO LAYOFF FOR TRAVELING TO BE PERMITTED

CHICAGO, Sept. 17.—(UP)—The world series will open Wednesday, October 2, probably at Detroit, and will be played without any layoff for traveling time unless the American league pennant, Baseball Commissioner Keneaw M. Landis announced today.

Judge Landis, baseball's high czar, announced the series plans after conferring with officials of six major league clubs, all of which have been given a mathematical chance of winning either the American or National league pennant.

First Two in Detroit

The world series would begin October 2 in Detroit and the second game would be played there the following day. The next three games would be played in the home park of the National league champions, probably Chicago or St. Louis, on Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

The sixth and seventh games, if the series goes that far, would be played in the American league park on Monday and Tuesday.

Ticket prices will be the same as last year, ranging from $1 to $6. Box seats will cost $6, grand stand reserved $5, general admission $3 and bleacher seats $1. To all prices a 10 per cent tax will be added and if any of the games are played in St. Louis a one per cent Missouri sales tax will be added.

Box grandstand and general admission tickets will be sold in blocks of three.

Cards Waive Opener

Judge Landis said that, although under the custom the series would open in the National league city, the change was made because St. Louis Cardinals management explained a convention in St. Louis might cause a shortage of accommodations.

The Chicago Cubs, leading the National league, wanted the series to open in Chicago in the event they participate but agreed to abide by St. Louis' request for the sake of uniformity.

Landis also pointed out that, because of the close race in the National league, the opening in the American league city would give officials of the National league championship club more time to make arrangements.

Browns Tender Hornsby 3-Year Contract

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—(UP)—Rogers Hornsby today received a new three-year contract as manager of the St. Louis Browns. The contract calls for a "substantial increase in salary."

In announcing the three-year term, Louis B. Von Weise, president of the club, said "We feel we have the best manager in baseball and we want to keep him. Hornsby has done fine work in building up the club."

Von Weise refused to state the amount of increase or total amount of salary. Baseball writers in close touch with the Browns situation, however, said Hornsby probably was boosted from $15,000 yearly to $20,000. In addition he is believed to receive a 10 per cent share in profits.

Rodgers To Shake Up H. B. Lineup Tonight

Stars or Oilers? Santa Ana or Huntington Beach? We'll have the answer in a few hours, and your opinion is as good as anybody's because the teams are even-step going into the seventh and final game of their National league championship series. Statistics give Santa Ana a slight edge, and the home field is certainly no handicap, but the man who picks either side is just guessing. That's how evenly matched the two finalists appear.

But if you MUST have a favorite, I like Santa Ana's chances. The Stars are coming and the Oilers look like they might be going. The Stars have a winning complex; for the first time in two years the Oilers have lost that supreme confidence they've carried into every ball game.

Oiler Shakeup Looks Nothing I know indicates this more than the dramatic announcement today by Joe Rodgers, manager of the Huntington Beach organization, that he plans sweeping changes in his batting order. This marks the first time in three seasons that the little ball of fire who heads the defending champions has found it necessary to make more than perfunctory alterations of his rotation.

The answer is that Rodgers has lost confidence in the lineup that won the second-half in 1934, and the second-half this year. Henry Thery continues to lead off for the champions but George Murray, the sweet left fielder, will move up to second place and Bob Smith, the red-headed first baseman who has been hitting the ball robustly all through the series, will swing third. Louie Neva will be fourth. Manager Rodgers, whose hitting has won two of the Oilers' three victories, is fifth, followed by Paul Neva, Merv Lowery, Orville Schuchardt and Bill McKinley.

Rodgers states frankly that he has been disappointed in the batting of Schuchardt and McKinley, blames the club's ills to their slump. McKinley was runner-up to Al Rebohn for seasonal batting honors with an average of .447. Naturally he was counted on to hammer in runs during the series but his six-game mark is .214. Schuchardt's is .148.

When I talked with Manager Rodgers today he was far from ready to give up even if he did admit disappointment in the Oilers' failure to mow down the Stars like all critics thought they would. "I don't believe there is a soft ball team in the country capable of defeating Huntington Beach three games in succession," he stated. "Believe me, if Santa Ana can lick us again the Stars will deserve the title. We won't."

Manager Rodgers, who shook up Santa Ana's lineup with highly satisfactory result after two successive setbacks, is doubling in brass these days. Busy by the famous department store, will sponsor a loudspeaker system.

Although the opening of college classes brought seven additions to the Santa Ana Jaycee grid roster, all was not rosy with Coach Bill Cook today when he learned that Frank McMichael, all-league guard from Tustin, has decided to drop school in favor of employment.

McMichael, 165-pound redhead, was a finished blocker on whom Cook was depending to work in well at the important inside half post.

The appearance of Bill Shields and Carl Benson, husky linemen who played regularly for Tustin high last fall, did much to allay the gloom in the Don camp. Benson weighs 180 while Shields hovers near the 175 mark. Another rookie who should do much toward aiding the all-important tackle situation appeared at Poly field in the person of Bain Alexander, 170-pound guard for Bill Foote at Santa Ana last season.

Although he will be unable to enroll in Jaycee for a week, Bruce Harnois, last year's regular quarterback was out in suit yesterday. Despite the employment that is keeping him from attending classes, Harnois will be present at all drills from now on.

Although attending practice in track suit last week, yesterday was Halfback Walt Hendrie's first appearance in grid regiments at the Don blivious. Hendrie was a speedy Saint trefback in 1933 who Cook may try at end.

Alvin Lamb, guard and quarter on last season's Saint squad; Ernest Butterworth, 195-pound Canadian rugby player who is with-out football experience, and Leo Maret were other prospects that the first day of school brought.

Coaches Cook and Al Rebohn put their changes through a short scrimmage. The behavior of John Lenhardt, former Garden Grove fullback, at halfback and Dick Moore, letterman full, caused the two Don mentors to wax eloquent while discussing conditions upon completion of the day's workout.

Tell Koenecke's Removal From Airplane

DETROIT, Sept. 17.—(UP)—Leonard Koenecke, Brooklyn baseball player slain in an airplane over Toronto, was removed from an American Airlines plane here last night after he had created a disturbance aboard the ship inbound from St. Louis, officials disclosed today.

Officials said Koenecke had been drinking and that when the player arrived here with Les Munns and Bobby Starr, Brooklyn pitchers, he was removed and the balance of his fare returned. Starr and Munns continued on the plane to New York.

Several hours later Koenecke entered the airport office seeking to charter a plane and was referred to William Mulqueeny, Detroit pilot, who took off from Municipal airport at 9:30 with Koenecke and Irvin Davis in the rear seat.

The much heralded and discussed no-holds-barred "flight-to-a-finish" between portly Jack Washburn of Boston and prehistoric Ernie Dusek, of the Nebraska badlands, which was half-expected to bathe ringsiders in gore at the Orange County Athletic club last night, proved routine business for Dusek.

The "ferocious" battle looked just about like any other wrestling match, with Mr. Washburn obviously no match for the bull-rushes of Dusek. Mr. Dusek, as a matter of fact, did not look too patient himself, except at rare intervals, which were all that was needed.

He dumped the ex-Boston policeman in two straight falls with super-footbalting tactics, in 5:41 and 8:34. Since they barred no holds for this match, the boys employed none, and contented themselves with haymakers and hooks to each other's shoulders.

The semi-windup, featuring Paul Boesch and Ivan Managoff in a two-out-of-three falls 60-minute battle, brought out two smart lads who indulged in more real wrestling than has been seen in the roadside arena for many weeks.

The boys were hard-working, scientific tuggers, more concerned with holds than haymakers, and as a consequence, entertained the customers for about 40 minutes. The fans broke all rules by giving both a barrage of gentlemanly hand-clapping as they left the ring after battling the full hour without a fall. Feature of the fight was the queer predicament they worked themselves into midway, when a multitude of holds applied indiscriminately gave them the appearance of four huge pretzels after a drunken night in the bender. Referee "Boo" Montana was most put out, striving for a good 60 seconds to untangle them, so the contest could continue.

There was no reason for a ringside guard to prevent a riot in the main event, but one was narrowly avoided in the opener, when "Wild Bill" Grubbs, tolling against Fred Mortenson, drew the ire of ringsiders, and had to battle as many as ten fans at once, in addition to Mortenson and the referee. No blood was shed, and the battle ended in a draw.

The other battle of the evening, a slap-dash affair (more slap than dash) between toothless "Tiger" Nelson, colored, and "Roughhouse" Fred Carone ended in 9:40, when Carone up-ended the Tiger with a body slam and three ladylike slaps to his unlovely physiognomy.

The strong Wooden Mills team is reported to be all set for a big season. It will represent the city in the Southern California Y. M. C. A. league. The Mormons also will have another strong aggregation in the field. Wayne Garlock is expected to show up with his usual following of experts, and LeRoy Levens promises to build a winning lineup to represent Darwin Scott's malted milk dispensary. Union Oil, Goodyear Tires, Weber's Bakery and the rest of the group are showing interest, while the church participation promises to be even larger than last year.

The first gun in the fall campaign, and Secretary's meeting will sound all who are interested, either as players or as managers of teams, make an effort to be on hand for the discussion.

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 17.—(UP)—Joe Louis is at his peak right now, Trainer Jack Blackburn said today, and "the job we have for the next week is to keep him there and not have him go stale."

Louis, after a secret workout yesterday, will resume active boxing tomorrow.

BAER TALKING AGAIN

SPECULATOR, N. Y., Sept. 17.—(UP)—Max Baer, preparing for his Sept. 24 fight with Joe Louis, resumed active training today by boxing six rounds.

Baer spent most of yesterday telling reporters what he is going to do to Louis. His only work consisted of a five-mile jaunt in the morning and a session of wood-chopping.

DADO TO QUIT IF HE LOSES TO CASTILLO

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 17.—(UP)—Speedy Dado, veteran Filipino puncher, prepared today to battle again and the fists of Frankie Castillo, 19-year-old Mexican schoolboy in what may be his last fight at the Olympic auditorium tonight.

Dado, with almost a decade of ring warfare behind him, has vowed he'll hang up his gloves if he fails to take the Mexican youngster in their 10-round bout.

For years one of the most popular boxers in California rings, the little Filipino has lost his last three fights to Pablo Dano, "Baby Face" Casanova and Small Montana.

IN WHICH PRESS-AGENT TIGE CLINTON HAS HIS SAY

Wrestlers off-stage are one big happy family. I am not the authority for that statement. As far as I know Dusek beats his wife; Kalmikoff makes faces at little children; Brother Johnson chases traffic cops; "Man Mountain" Dean steps on worms. I don't know. Tige Clinton, press-agent deluxe for Sam Sampson enterprises, is my authority.

Tige claims wrestlers work for the good of the game, never cry about small purses, never intentionally hurt each other, always have the best interests of the promoter at heart, wrestle just as hard before 50 as 5000.

Incidentally, Clinton is really the fellow's first name. His given name is Reckless, but Tige scrapped that part of it long ago as too long, complicated and unromantic, and anyway nobody ever could spell or pronounce it.

Everett Marshall once wrestled at the Municipal Bowl here for $250. The night before that he worked in Long Beach for $200. Did he care? No, he was building up the business, working hard, so that others of the fraternity could clean up later, when wrestling had gotten a foothold here. At that he wasn't so altruistic; one of his brothers undoubtedly was wrestling for six-bits in Scappoose so Marshall could clean up there later. A pretty thought.

When Tiger-Man Nick Lutze or the Hungarian Adonis, Sandor Szabo, throws a fight down the well because some opponent persists in sticking thumbs in his eyes, he is not doing it because he is afraid of his orbs being completely eliminated.

He shrinks away, he is terrorized, he loses the fall, because he is afraid of the wrestler's nightmare, trachoma. Trachoma, born of perspiration, resin, dust from the canvas, attacks the eyelids, causes an inflammation, and in time blindness. It is no respecter of persons, gets every wrestler at least once in his career, and is expensive.

The disease cost Jim Browning his world's title, because he could not see to evade the rushes of his opponents; it cost "Strangler" Ed Lewis as much as $50,000 in hospital bills here and there; it recently prevented George Mehlinger, ex-football flash, from showing here; it is the peculiar bane of wrestling, where it runs wild. If you want to terrorize a 250-pound bone-crusher, stick a sweaty hand in the direction of his eyes. You'll get the fall.

And here's the "inside" reason why Bud Holzhauser, tow-headed Long Beach k. o. king, never fought Young LeMon here at the Orange County Athletic club. Holzhauser wants to turn pro, wants a name that's easier to read, pronounce and spell. In fact he wants to be "Bud" Curly.

When he began fighting he asked the commissioner to change his name to Curly, get the official o. k. A week later he signed for a fight at the westside arena in Long Beach, was spied by Inspector Tom Cox, who made him write Bud Holzhauser so the world to see. Bewildered Bud wrote it.

Later, when an investigation relative to the LeMon difficulties came up, the commissioner investigated, found that "Bud Holzhauser" as such, was not registered with the commission, suspended him, called off all fights, and launched another "investigation." Helgho. Nevertheless, says Clinton, Bud eventually will fight here, and if he gets a chaen knock out LeMon and Herrera both in the same night, or even the same fight, if he gets a chance, knock out LeMon the next 90 days, he is working in the Signal Hill oil fields. Bud doesn't scare easy, Clinton said. If his manager told him to go in and fight Max Baer, "O.K." would say young Bud, "I'll tear his head off."

Plans are afoot for an Orange County novice night, to be held once a month at the O. C. A. C. preceding the regular card, when first-nighters could get their chance in two-minute, two-round fights, against boys the same weight.

No more awkward, willing boys slugging their hearts out to no avail on the customer's money. No more terrible mismatches. An equal chance for everybody. Not a bad idea.

IRON BRIEFS

(By United Press)

SANTA CLARA.—Coach Maurice (Clipper) Smith of Santa Clara was first under the wire in the 100-yard regular line today. Smith named as the starting team for his first game Sept. 28: Burton and Finney at ends; McGee and Hauchman at tackles; Dowd and Delmas, guards; McCusker, center; Serenim, DeHosa, Filaschi and other Kaided Thomas in the backfield. McCusker, a sensational defensive player, is the only newcomer. The rest are veterans.

BERKELEY.—University of California's first football casualty turned up today. The victim is Al Therell, a veteran fullback whom Coach Allison intended to convert into a quarterback because of his blocking ability. Therell had a bad knee which may keep him on the bench all year.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY.—Lessons learned in the Rose Bowl last January are being applied in the Stanford 1935 workouts. Taking a page from Alabama's book, "Time Thoroughly is stressing the forward pass in his attack with Paul Paulman, a sophomore and Frank Alustia as the pitchers.

CORVALLIS, Ore.—With the opening game set for next Saturday against Linfield, Coach Lon Stiner drove his Oregon State squad hard in two practice drills here, Stiner is developing a new backfield, in which Ray Scott, a line-man last year, may be fullback and either Jack Brand or John Watts, California products, may be quarterback.

SEATTLE.—Three sophomore candidates are flashing promising form in University of Washington preliminary workouts here. Frank Wasco, with Ed Rulla, halfbacks, and Vic Markov, a tackle, are the new men who may win regular berths on Jimmy Phelan's 1935 team.

LOS ANGELES.—Coach Howard Jones hopes to use Davie Davis' speed on the receiving end of forward passes, preliminary to his developing a new backfield. While the rest of the "Thundering Herd" worked on fundamentals, Davis caught long and short passes in the Trojan drill.

LOS ANGELES.—Loyola, first of the major teams to open its season, will enter Friday night's game against Caltech without the benefit of a scrimmage. Tom Lieb fears practice injuries might hamper his small squad.

WATER BOND INFORMATION OFFICE OPEN

An "information" office has been opened by the Orange County Flood Control District at 512 North Main street, Santa Ana, it was announced today, for dissemination of facts and statistics relating to the $6,520,000 bond issue to be voted upon October 4.

Resident Engineer M. N. Thompson, of the flood control district, acting under authority of the county supervisors, as directors of the flood control district, appointed Larry Golden, of Santa Ana, in charge of the information office.

Golden will explain the project for flood control and water conservation to voters, and will dispense maps, charts, construction plans and detailed engineering reports that will be kept on file for public information, Thompson stated.

Opening of the office was authorized by the board of supervisors of the flood control district, in conformity with Section 6, of the Orange County Flood Control Act, as a public duty to make available to all voters full details of the protection and conservation plan prepared through years of study and the expenditure of approximately $300,000 of county funds.

Need is imperative.

"The imperative need for protection from disastrous floods is generally recognized by the people of Orange county," Thompson said today, "and when this can be done, along with saving 40,000 acre feet of storm waters on the average per year which now goes to waste into the ocean, and with nearly half the cost to be borne as a gift to us by the Federal government in its public works job building program, it would certainly appear that all voters should study the program with a view to giving it their approval at the election on October 8."

"We want the people of Orange county to vote intelligently upon this issue, which will determine the flood and water fate of the county for many years to come, and we are doing everything possible which is permitted by law to place all information about the plan in their hands."

"The time is short, and we shall appreciate the help of any citizen in getting these important facts into the hands of their friends and neighbors before election day."

MAKE EFFORTS TO GET P. W. A. SCHOOLS AID

Residents and school officials of Fullerton and Brea today were considerably more hopeful that their important school buildings, based on a desire to rehabilitate earthquake-damaged school buildings, would be approved by the government following receipt of a telegram to the editor of The Register from Senator W. G. McAdoo saying that the senator has taken the matters up with Secretary Ickes and has urged the carrying out of the projects of Fullerton and Brea.

The action of Senator McAdoo in personally taking up the matters with government officials came as a result of a telegram sent following efforts made by a committee of local representatives aided by Paul Witmer, urging the necessity of approval of the school projects.

In the telegram, it was pointed out that the same general conditions prevail in Fullerton and Brea. "In Fullerton," the telegram said, "the board has a program for building for $429,000. They raised by a bond election an amount of $156,000 and, having $79,000 on hand this, with the federal aid of $192,000, being 45 percent, would complete their job in the high school."

"At Brea the total for the program was $190,000. They had $20,000 on hand; they carried a bond issue before the people for $85,000 which would leave at 45 percent $38,250 for the federal government to furnish. In the elementary schools at Brea they had a total to raise of $140,000. They had $47,000 available; $30,000 they raised through bonds for which the people voted, leaving a grant for the federal government on the basis of 45 percent of $63,000."

The telegram pointed out that the projects fulfill all requirements laid down by the P.W.A. but to the utter consternation of school officials Hopkins' office turned these projects down. It is believed that the refusal to extend government aid was due to a misunderstanding. More bond issues would be impossible, it was pointed out, and the two school boards are worse off now than before.

It was brought out that P.W.A. officials had assured the school districts that they could depend on the government aid.

FINE TWO MEN FOR DRUNKEN DRIVING

Two men arrested by Santa Ana police officers over the weekend on charges of driving automobiles while under the influence of liquor were each fined $150 before Judge John Landell in the Santa Ana police court yesterday.

Both were committed to the county jail to serve 75 days in lieu of the fine, when they were unable to raise the money. A. W. Watts, 31, Santa Ana, and Tony Gonzalez, Delhi, were the defendants.

IDENTIFY SUSPECT AS WRITER'S SON

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Sept. 17.—(UP)—Fingerprints of the youth held on a statutory charge in Susanville are identical with those of Thomas Alton Tully, 24, son of Jim Tully, Hollywood novelist, records of the state bureau of criminal identification revealed today.

Copies of the youth's prints were received today and were compared with those of young Tully who had been arrested three times previously in Los Angeles on charges similar to the one brought against him in Susanville.

Merle Dean, chief criminal deputy sheriff, said today that Kennedy would waive preliminary examination and plead guilty to the charge in the superior court on Friday.

Bedsheets and household articles taken in the burglary were recovered by officers when they found Kennedy in Long Beach. Kennedy lives at 2955 Clay street, in San Diego. He has been out of the penitentiary a year and a half, he said.

WILL DEDICATE LOOKOUT TOWER NEXT SATURDAY

Dedication of the Gilman lookout tower, recently completed, has been set for Saturday at 2 p. m. according to Joe Scherman, state forest ranger. The tower is located 1655 feet above sea level on Gilman peak between Telegraph canyon and Soquel canyon in the Carbon canyon area.

The lookout for the area will be placed tomorrow morning. The tower is 30 feet high and is constructed of steel. At the top is a 14 by 14 foot cabin which the lookout will occupy.

Officials Invited

A number of officials prominent in conservation work are to be present and these will include H. S. Gilman for whom the tower is named. Gilman, a member of the Southern California forestry board is a resident of San Dimas. He has served on the board for many years, during terms of office of three governors, C. C. Young, James Rolph and Frank C. Merriam.

Spencer Turner, another member of the state board is to be present with supervisors of Los Angeles, Orange and San Bernardino counties, all served by the erection of the tower in the detection of fire in its early stages.

A view of Orange county, south Los Angeles county and east San Bernardino county is gained from the top of the tower. George Cecil, secretary of the Los Angeles conservation association will be present and among other officials high in forestry circles will be M. B. Pratt, state forester of Sacramento.

According to Scherman all persons especially interested in forest protection and conservation are invited to be present.

ORANGE COUNTY PROJECTS APPROVED BY WPA; LIST EXPECTED HERE WEDNESDAY

Definite word was received today from R. M. Gregory, district WPA engineer, San Diego, that a number of Works Progress Administration projects for Orange county had been approved at Washington, D. C., and that work would start here within the near future.

While White was unable to release the projects which had received official sanction today, he intimated that approximately five in Santa Ana were among those on which immediate work would be started.

Expect Quick Action

County WPA Engineer Clyde Baxter said today that notifying men and preparing work orders and sheets for the start of projects would be a matter of only two or three days, and would be undertaken as soon as official starting dates were received from Washington.

Dan Mulhaddon, county administration manager was in San Diego today conferring with district officials relative to the start of work, and will return tomorrow, probably with definite information relative to starting dates, number of men to be employed, and projects definitely approved.

Among larger projects which is felt will secure early approval of the administration are the excavation of the Villa Park Storm Drain, at an estimated cost of $79,656; Santiago Creek park, at a cost of approximately $47,000; drainage and street work programs.

Items Requested

Among county programs on the lists are school projects at Huntington Beach, Laguna Beach, Fullerton and Brea, while at Orange and San Juan Capistrano a number of street projects are expected to get the early attention of the federal administration.

In all more than 90 projects were submitted to the administration headquarters in Washington for approval.

Employment for thousands of men in Orange county will result this fall from the start of the gigantic program. Registration for jobs under both WPA and PWA will be conducted through the National Reemployment service, with offices in the Santa Ana post-office.

BACKGROUND OF CONSTITUTION TOLD IN TALK

A special Constitution day program was held this noon at the meeting of the Santa Ana Rotary club, with George Kellogg, Yorba Linda, talking on "The Background of the Constitution."

Kellogg traced the beginnings of the Constitution, which he said were founded when the Pilgrims landed in this country. That period of inception of the ideals embodied in the document was longer, and more productive of lasting effects, than the period since its adoption today.

He said it was during this trying period, while colonial citizens still were under British rule, that the principles of our democracy were worked out, so as to be an integral part of our life.

The three things most desired by the Pilgrims when they came here were incorporated into the Constitution, he said. These he listed as religious freedom, freedom of speech, and individual freedom. The right of the individual and of the minority were more respected in the Constitutional beginnings of the country than they are now.

The wisdom of the work of the Constitutional congress, which drafted and adopted the charter, was amazing, he said. In closing he urged a belief in the principles of the Constitution.

James Tucker also spoke briefly, outlining the causes for the school bond election to be held here at the end of the month, and urging support of the issue. Program chairman for the day were John Kenyon and C. H. Chapman.

The domestic price was firm at 9 cents a pound.

Continued heavy buying of the red metal here and abroad, much of which is believed to be for Italian war needs, gave the market a strong undertone.

THE BLUE DOOR

clothes doesn't deserve a break like that."

"No," answered Ruth humbly. "She doesn't. I haven't deserved any of the breaks of this visit, John. Finding you next door, for instance, liking you—"

"Just—liking me, Elaine?"

She replied, making patterns on the table cloth with one finger, "Sometimes I write things I'm too inhibited to say. When I go away, maybe I'll leave a letter for you—"

"I don't," he replied, shaking his head and staring at the glowing tip of his cigarette. It sounds like you're planning a dismissal for me. When is this to happen? Any definite time set?"

"No definite time," she answered, not looking at him. When in Cleveland that other time she had managed to locate the Salvation Army headquarters. She supposed they would take her in. Sitting there in this restaurant in velvet evening gown and gold slippers, facing a young man in a dinner jacket who was looking at her tenderly and solicitously, it seemed preposterous to think of herself applying for a corner in a Salvation Army barracks. Applying for it helpfully, accepting it gratefully.

Her face must have registered some of the turmoil of her thoughts, for John said quickly, "No serious thinking permitted tonight! I wonder if you like plain breakfast as well as I do?"

"Order it," Ruth told him, "and I'll show you. Do you happen to notice how I've put on weight since I've been here?"

"I've noticed," he replied. "You look a hundred per cent better. Don't ever carry dieting to that extreme again, Elaine! Will you promise me that?"

She saw that he was in earnest. She wanted to promise him, but how could she know what the future might hold for her in the shape of meal tickets? She compromised by saying, "I believe I've learned my lesson. I can see what rest and regular meals have done for me. I believe I'll fit for anything that's ahead of me now."

A waiter, bringing hors d'oeuvres, interrupted the personal trend and after that it was merely a social evening.

Ruth had never seen a play by famous professionals, but no one would have suspected it as she sat beside John McNeill and studied her program with quiet pose. He liked her silences. He had always hated chattering girls who talked nervously with a horrid sense of pause. In Ruth's company the silences were comfortable, a part of their companionship. Even when they conversed it was generally he who talked, she who listened.

However, on the ride home after the play, not even John talked.

STATE WARRANTS TO B. & P. W. CLUB TOTAL $86,000,000

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 17.—(UP)—California will have $86,000,000 outstanding in registered warrants, or I.O.U.s by June 30, 1937—the end of the present biennium—according to estimates announced today by Controller Ray L. Riley.

During the intervening period, $117,000,000 in registered warrants will be issued in lieu of cash to pay current state expenses, and a total of $55,000,000 in warrants will be called. These were, however, $24,000,000 outstanding on July 1, so the call of $55,000,000 would still leave a deficit of $36,000,000 by June 30, 1937.

Riley said that warrants issued up to March, 1936, will have been called for redemption on or before August, 1937.

DELAY SALE OF BREA-OLINDA BOND ISSUES

Scheduled sale of the $85,000 bond issue of Brea-Olinda high school and the $30,000 bond issue of Brea elementary schools today was postponed by the county supervisors, as a result of delay in approval of grants to these districts by the federal government.

Under a "gentlemen's agreement" when the bonds were voted, it was understood that they would not be sold unless the government grant to the projects was made. Accordingly the sale today was cancelled.

The supervisors today appropriated the sum of $250 to the American Legion post of Anaheim, representing the county's annual contribution toward the expense of the Armistice Day celebration, which will be held in Anaheim this year.

Dr. K. H. Sutherland, county health officer, was authorized to attend the health conference in San Francisco late this month.

Purchasing Agent F. W. Slabaugh was instructed to purchase two trucks for use of the county road department.

THE BLUE DOOR

Ruth, exhausted by excitement and by the strain of being a fairly princess for an entire evening, slipped soundly, her head against his shoulder, her breathing as soft and regular as a child's. She did not know that he kissed her hair and called her "Darling!" every time he changed gears.

When she awoke, finding with him, Ruth knew she had added one more reckless link to the chain of folly she was forging. She also knew that she was glad.

It was two days after the theater party that he asked her. He said, "There's a dinner dance at the Country Club tonight. Or we could go slumming—to one of the decent roadhouses, I mean. Or we could go to Cleveland. It doesn't matter to me where we go, just so we dance."

Ruth replied quickly "Not the Country Club, John! I don't want to see a lot of people I expected to remember—and don't!" Let him think her blasé. Let him think her indifferent to Worthville. At least he could not think her indifferent to himself.

"All right," he said. "So much the better. If I took you to a local dance I'd place tag all evening. Now I know a place called the Allegiance where that's 60 miles from here toward the mountains, but worth the drive. It's run by a couple of people from Maryland—and down-and-out gentry—who specialize on good food and a good orchestra. There's the right patronage. No rough stuff. A beautiful log lodge overlooking a water gap. Hangs over the river. Two big fireplaces. Maryland fried chicken—"

Ruth said, "Are you a paid press agent for this paradise, or just feeling lyrical? Anyway, I'm sold. What time shall I be ready?"

"We'd better allow an hour and a half," he calculated, "on account of the curves. I'll phone for 7 o'clock reservations. Let's leave here about 5:30. Do you think Bertha will object?"

Ruth shook her head and laughed. "It's not very flattering to me, but her one idea seems to be to get me out of the house. What must I wear, John?"

He said, "It's one of those places where anything goes. I won't dress. Won't have time. But you wear anything your little heart desires."

Her little heart desired to wear the lace dinner dress. Yearned to wear it. After her bath she argued with herself about it: "John's not dressing. The correct thing for me to wear would be one of the knit dresses—or the navy blue satin. But he's never seen me in all of them. He's never seen me in the lace. If I don't wear it tonight he never will. . . . If I don't wear it I'll always wish I had. It might get to be a suppressed desire with me and turn me into a" criminal or something! I'll wear it—"

When she had put it on she was not sorry. Its cream-tan color flattered her brown eyes and hair. Its little round collar was young and demure. Its fitted bodice called for a slender figure, exactly like her own. She said to the mirror, "I'm not his idea of a girl tonight, then I'll never be!"

John was late. It was after 6 when he called for her, breathless and apologetic for having been detained at the factory. "I'm not a play boy," he told her. "Business has to come first. Well, we'll stop on it. The first 40 miles is pretty straight road."

It was this part of the road that proved their undoing. About 30

CITY OFFERED DISCOUNT ON EXCESS POWER

A contract proposed by the Southern California Edison company, offering Santa Ana a 40 per cent discount on all overhead street lighting used within a year in excess of current used within the past year was presented to the city council last night.

The contract was turned over to the city attorney for checking and will be returned to the council for action at its next regular meeting. Members of the council stated that tests were being made now to determine the advisability of using bigger globes in the hanging street lights.

A total of $14,000 was spent last year for current for the overhanging lights.

The city has already increased the amount of current used for ornamental street lighting under a contract with the Edison company which gives a 50 per cent discount for all "juice" used in excess of the amount consumed last year.

AIRPLANE USAGE IN ALASKA, TOPIC

The use of the airplane in Alaska by the U. S. Department of Commerce, Bureau of Fisheries, will be graphically described in tomorrow's broadcast of "Romance Under the Water," and quoting U. S. Commissioner of Fisheries Frank T. Bell.

Previous broadcasts have dealt with the salmon industry in Alaska, but tomorrow's broadcast will tell specifically how the airplane is used to handle violations of the fish and game laws and, in particular, describe an interesting and amusing experience had by Commissioner Bell who flew over a group of Alaskan bears.

The "Romance Under the Water" broadcasts are made every Wednesday at the same hour.

AID ON FLOOD PROJECT ASKED OF SANTA ANA

A communication from the Orange Community Chamber of Commerce, asking the city council to aid in soliciting the president to hurry in making the federal appropriation for the Orange county flood control work, was received by the Santa Ana city council last night, and referred to Mayor Fred Rowland with power to act.

The letter, signed by V. D. Johnson called attention to the fact that work must start by October 12 under federal plans and pointed out that the county election would be held here on October 4, to approve bonds for the county's share of the expense.

Johnson asks that hundreds of telegrams be sent to the president. Mayor Rowland said he would not take action on the proposition last night.

WPA Applications On Projects Now Filed In Capitol

Advices received today from state headquarters of WPA stated that project applications covering all of the $202,000,000 allotted California under the $4,000,000,000 program were on file in Washington Thursday, the deadline set by President Franklin D. Roosevelt, County Manager Dan Muller said today.

Acting under authority from Washington, state officials submitted a large number of project proposals in blanket form in order that the rights of individual projects may be safeguarded until such time as plans for them have been filed by local divisions of government. State headquarters officials estimate they will eventually have on file approximately 6000 applications, more than 80 of which were submitted from Orange county.

CONSTITUTION 148 YEARS OLD

Reasons For Revision Are Listed Here

Those who believe extensive or fundamental changes in the Constitution must be made in view of today's condition argue somewhat as follows: The Constitution was literally the product of a "horse-and-buggy" age, when the country had 4,000,000 people instead of 125,000,000, when communication was difficult, and life and business relations were simple. It was a charter of political liberty in days when economic liberty more or less took care of itself. Today, political liberty is assumed in America, and the battle for economic liberty, is just beginning. The forefathers could not foresee or provide for the rise of great corporations and financial structures, the network of communications between states, or industrialization which utterly changed the relations between a working man and his job. Therefore, in their zeal to protect state and individual rights, they denied to the federal government powers which are necessary today for control of industrial, communication, and financial conditions which may be handled successfully only on a national scale by the federal government. Prof. Howard Lee McBain of Columbia has concluded that "No fundamental change in our economic system, no far-reaching alteration in the relations of government to business, can be brought about without changing the Constitution. "We should not rush or drift into such important changes upon the high tide of an emergency. The common man should understand what is up." This point of view sympathizes with the supreme court's decisions against recent social legislation such as NRA and railroad pensions. The thing to do is to change the Constitution, so that the court must follow the new guide-posts. This fight for new economic liberty can be a victorious one without sacrificing any of the hard-won political or personal liberties which the Constitution was mainly designed to preserve. Though most of the proponents of giving the federal government these new powers are somewhat vague on just what powers ought to be given and in just what terms they should be defined, they are clear that the right to enact wage laws, provide for pension and unemployment systems, and various means of controlling business practices are vital to nations of today. Matters such as the power of the supreme court to invalidate laws of Congress which are not clearly defined in the Constitution, but have built themselves up,

SHOULD OUR CONSTITUTION BE REVISED? HERE ARE ANSWERS

BY WILLIS THORNTON
Register Washington Correspondent
WASHINGTON, Sept. 17.—Under heavy glass in a massive marble and bronze case in the Library of Congress here are several yellowing sheets of manuscript with fading signatures that were affixed 148 years ago. On Sept. 17, 1787, these very pages were adopted as the fundamental law under which "we, the people" of the United States, chose to govern ourselves. The document was conceived in storm and stress, was bitterly argued and contested before being adopted, has been interpreted, contested, amended, and debated ever since. Twenty amendments have been added since those sheets were written and signed. The first 10, however, were really part of the original, adopted as a portion of the original process of constitution making. In the succeeding 148 years, only 10 changes have been made. Newton D. Baker has pointed out that out of 2600 proposed changes, only these 20 have been accepted, five rejected, and the others not regarded as sufficiently mature even to be submitted to the people. It has proved one of the most durable written instruments in political history. But on this 148th anniversary, a movement to scrutinize this document is spreading over the country. President Roosevelt himself, gravely and with deliberation, suggested, after the U. S. Supreme Court ruled that NRA violated the Constitution, that within "five or ten years" the American people must restudy their Constitution and determine whether basic law, devised for 18th century "horse-and-buggy ways," is suitable in every way for a 20th century age of machinery, power, and close-knit national organization. Following this lead, a flood of discussion instantly covered the country. Magazine articles, radio speeches, newspaper stories, pamphlets all aimed at informing people what the Constitution is, or persuading them that it ought or ought not to be changed. The 148th year of the American Constitution is definitely destined to be one in which the people will put it under a critical microscope and determine whether it needs the opposing points of view which will be advanced during the coming year, on either side.

should be defined by amendments, they say, and the whole process of changing the Constitution, today an unwieldy, tiresome and long-drawn-out process, should be simplified. This winter's supreme court decisions on such laws as the Guffey coal control act, the Wagner labor relations act, the social security act, the banking act, and the Holding Company act, will amply show, this view contends, that the Constitution at present does not give Congress power to enact such laws. Therefore, it is not too soon even today to begin to plan very carefully what changes in the Constitution will give Congress powers adequate and appropriate to modern industrial and collectivist civilization. Many prospective home builders seem to be delaying purchase of home sites due to recent increases in building costs, and the belief that continued delay will produce further advantages, it was announced today by Ellis C. Diehl, vice president of the Santa Ana Building and Loan association. This procrastination is typical of the average investor, whether contemplating investment in stocks, bonds or real estate, according to Diehl, with result that prices usually increases measurably above the bottom levels, before realization dawn that rare opportunities have been lost. Diehl said today, "Even though building costs have risen considerably above bottoms of 1932-33, land is still available at great bargain prices, and the purchase of a residential site now at such low level, combined with reasonable building costs such as prevail today, and which are still considerably below the commonly accepted normal levels of 1926, should prove very satisfactory, particularly to the person intending to occupy on completion." A table presented by the California Building-Loan League to provide cost comparisons for a typical five room bungalow, Diehl said, show that where total costs for such a structure in 1926, the same building cost $2590 in 1932, and $3565 in 1935. Air pockets are not vacuum-like spaces through which an airplane drops without support. They are disturbances in the air, caused by varying contour of the ground, temperature changes, etc. they are mated. Madeleine Carroll is the girl in the show.

Reason Why Revision Is Impractical

Those who believe it would be unwise to make any extensive or fundamental changes in the Constitution argue somewhat as follows: The Constitution is, after all, "tried and true." For nearly 150 years, in a world of change and instability, the United States has been able to go forward, make orderly progress, and achieve high standards under this Constitution. James M. Steck has stated this point of view: "We should not tear down in a moment of hysterical fear a form of government that has grown up for nearly 150 years and has gained the admiration of the world." In a world which tends more and more to make the individual man merely a creature of the state, the written Constitution setting definite limits on the power of government is the common man's best guarantee against governmental oppression. Justice Van Orsdel, president-general of the Sons of the Revolution says, "The primary object of government in this country was not to govern the citizen, but to protect him from arbitrary power, and above all to protect the minority from the tyranny of the majority."

The federal government was given, therefore, only such powers as were definitely allotted to it by the people and by the several states. The tendency of every amendment since the 14th, and of almost all proposed amendments, is to take away powers from the states and from the individual citizens and confer them on the federal government. This is a dangerous tendency, because even giving to the federal government individual powers of regulation and control which may be desirable tends to build up a machine which cannot help eventually becoming oppressive to the individual. As a practical matter, too, such vast federal administrative system are hard to administer well. This view has faith in the way the supreme court will interpret the present Constitution. Walter Lippmann is typical in his statement that "I see no reason to think that the evolution has suddenly terminated and that the Constitution, which has been elastic for nearly a century and a half, has suddenly become rigid."

Admitting the basic law to be the product of human minds in conflict in "horse-and-buggy days" which did not foresee today's mechanical world, they believe with Joseph Davis, Chicago attorney, that the Constitution accords with the great truths of human nature, which have not changed greatly during the period of recorded history: "It is based on deep fundamental truths: it recognized the weakness of man; it set up a rational influence; it was calculated to be of enduring character; it was the creation of some of the greatest minds that this country has ever produced." Therefore, argues this point of view, no sweeping or fundamental changes ought to be made, even though it might be advisable to adjust some details for smoother working out of government problems in practice. CONTROVERSY OVER MEDICAL OFFICE ENDED

Dr. Robert S. Wade, Santa Ana physician, won his long fight for the privilege of erecting a $5,000 office building on the northeast corner of Eighth and Bush streets last night, when the Santa Ana city council again refused to take the recommendation of the city planning commission recently appointed by the council, in the matter. Dr. Wade first filed application to the board to erect the new physician's office in March of this year. The application was continued and put off time and again. Finally the old planning commission recommended that the council deny the application. Later the matter was taken up again. A new planning commission was in power by this time. Last night there was a joint meeting between the council and the commission. The commission recommended the board deny the application, and by a unanimous vote, the council granted the permission. Franklin G. West, well known Santa Ana attorney, represented Dr. Wade at the meeting, although the doctor also was present. The district was zoned for apartment houses and the granting of the application opens it for business. One member of the council, in an apologetic manner towards the city planning commission, declared that he wanted the entire city rezoned, in that it had been 10 years since any zoning was done. Charles Walker, of the planning commission, told the board he didn't care what it did with the application. He said that granting the application was "not good zoning, but you do what you please with it." The council did. W. B. Martin declared that the city was zoned for business now enough to make room for a city of 300,000 people. Dr. Wade expects to erect a handsome office building of 12 rooms, he told the board. It is to be constructed of frame and stucco, Spanish type, and he and his brother will be associated together in the building. He also stated that a dental office would be in the building, but under questioning by members of the city council, declared there would be no clinic there and no bed patients.

Pleasant High School Associations Are Renewed at Party

The home of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mock, 201 East Seventeenth street, was setting Friday for a gay dinner event when Miss Charlotte Mock, daughter of the home, and Miss Marian Doty brought together a group of high school classmates for happy reunion.

Steaks were prepared for the all fresco dinner, at the garden grill near which the table was arranged. Stuffed tomato salad, cleverly garnished with vegetables, provided a colorful decorative note. After dinner, the young people re-assembled within the home for bridge in which prizes were won by the Misses Nancy White and Betty Lee.

Honor guests at the dinner were the Misses Nancy White, Ione Hooven and Barbara Rowland, soon to depart for college. Miss White and Miss Rowland will enter Scripps college, Claremont, and Miss Hooven, winner of the journalism scholarship for this year, will go to University of California.

Others assembled by Miss Mock and Miss Doty were the Misses Helena Bailey, Jean Reuter, Betty Lee, Betty Campbell, Valerie Demetriou, Frances Was and Mary Lou McFarland.

Former Santa Ana Establishes Home in East

Returning home in time to resume her teaching duties at Hoover school, Mrs. Butler Hart, 821 French street, concluded a vacation spent in Washington, D. C., where the marriage of her daughter, Miss Anne Hart, to H. Nelson Spottswood, took place August 30.

Mrs. Hart, her daughter and a son, Ben Hart of Los Angeles, made the trip east together in midsummer. The wedding took place in the Church of the Transfiguration in Washington. Services were radio-cast for the benefit of the bride's uncle, Robert Davidson, who was to have given his niece in marriage, but who was confined with illness to a Washington hospital.

California flowers were sent to the bride for her wedding day. Mr. and Mrs. Herman Powell and Miss Margaret Esau of this city provided orange blossoms for the formal bridal ceremony; Mrs. H. C. Ulrich, 1739 Valencia street, sent marigolds which the new Mrs. Spottswood wore with her traveling costume.

Mr. and Mrs. Spottswood are making their home at 2401 Calvert N. W., Washington, D. C. The bridegroom is district manager for the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone company. Mrs. Spottswood will begin the study of portraiture at the art school connected with the Corcoran Gallery October 1. She was associated in the art department at R.K.O. studios after completion of her work at Santa Ana high school and Art Center in Los Angeles.

Prospective Bride Has Pretty Party Given In Her Honor

Miss Vera Levens, whose plans for her wedding of October 5 to Alvin Rebohn, noted U.S.C. athlete and now assistant football coach at Santa Ana Junior college, were so recently announced, was complimented at a bachelorette party and linen shower given for her last night by Mrs. Sally Buzzell in her home, 610 East Washington avenue.

The honor guest herself won first prize in the evening's contest, while Mrs. E. McKim was consoling.

Decorations were in red and white, with flowers, gayly checked linens, and even the refreshment course of jello and whipped cream with decorated cakes, following the chosen color theme.

Old Friends Assembled For Party Honoring Mrs. Dolese

One of the latest of the various parties given during the Orange county visit of Mrs. John Dolese of Evanston, Ill., was the delightfully informal luncheon and bridge at which Mrs. Volney V. Tubbs of Tustin, last week assembled a score or more old time friends of Mrs. Dolese.

Flowers which are a continual pleasure in the garden of the Tubbs home, were garnered in profusion to lend their charm to the home itself, and to brighten the small tables where guests were gathered in groups of four for the luncheon menu. Miss Louise Tubbs assisted her mother in details of serving and entertaining.

Five tables were employed for the afternoon's contract session in which high score was made by the honor guest herself, who was rewarded with an attractive gift. Mrs. Dolese was formerly Miss Elsie Harrison, long a resident of Santa Ana and Tustin. She and Mrs. Dolese and their daughter, Miss Gertrude Dolese, have been renewing many friendships during their month's visit with Mrs. Dolese's sister, Mrs. Walter Finch of Fullerton.

Sigma Tau Psi Extends Tea Compliment to Many Friends

A. Turner's home, 2028 Greenleaf street, with Miss Gertrude Turner as receiving hostess.

Two score or more friends of chapter members were bidden to share the afternoon, for which admirable setting was lent by the garden with its special furniture, its flower borders, and many Deauville umbrellas supplementing the shade of leafy trees.

Chapter members, crowned in the smiles of filmy garden party hats, and wide-brimmed picture hats, were distinguished from their similarly attired guests by shoulder corsages of gardenias. Miss Turner presented a prettily bound guest book in which names were inscribed.

Green and gold were stressed in tea table appointments of gay yellow linen, yellow tea napkins with the sorority crest and the menu itself. Zinnias in various degrees of yellow and gold overflowed from a big silver bowl, and silver candelabra held green and yellow tapers.

Following departure of the guests, a chapter meeting was held to discuss Thursday night's meeting with Miss Eloise Wright, Fullerton.

Hostess chapter members present with Miss Turner were Mrs. Edward Sugden, president, Mesdames Woodrow Barnett, Roy Griset, Herbert Hill, Thomas Jentes, Ray Buxton, V. 1 large tomato, sliced
2 slices canned corned beef, sliced fine
1 teaspoon grated green pepper, or a chopped pickle
1 lettuce heart
Diet mayonnaise or French dressing

2 thin slices toasted rye bread
1-2 teaspoon butter for toast
Pot of clear tea, no sugar
Calory total, 300.
Use best lettuce leaves for a garnish, shred balance for the salad. The diced corned beef goes over the sliced tomato, and is the best flavored salad you've ever eaten. I don't think the family will go for toasted rye, so substitute rolls or muffins for the rye toast, and add a simple fruit dessert or a rice pudding.

TODAY'S RECIPES

Baked Creole Halibut

A 2-pound slice of halibut
4 tablespoons French dressing
1 tablespoon grated onion
1 pint strained tomato purée
1-2 green pepper, shredded
1-2 cup grated cheese and
1-2 cup crumbs, mixed
2 tablespoons butter
Salt and pepper
Pour the French dressing and grated onion over the fish slice, let stand in it for 3 hours, turning the slice occasionally. Oil a baking dish, transfer fish to dish, pouring over the fish the strained tomato and green pepper. Season and bake, dish covered, for 40 minutes in a 350 degree oven.

Uncover the fish, strewn with crumbs and cheese, dot with butter, set under the broiler until the crumbs and cheese melt and brown.

A delicious relish to serve with this fish dish (serving four) would be grated Savoy cabbage and vinegar and sugar. Then for a vegetable that will be both vegetable and potato, let me suggest—

Baked Stuffed Hubbard Squash

1-2 good sized Hubbard squash
3 cups soft crumb mixed with 4 slices bacon, diced and fried 1 onion, ground and fried with bacon
1 teaspoon poultry seasoning
Salt and pepper
Clean out the squash and parboil it 20 minutes in a kettle of water. This parboiling, by the way, is always a time-saver when you bake squash or potatoes. Brush the squash shell with butter, salt, pepper and a dusting of sugar. Make a light fluffy dressing, filling the squash shell and bake in medium oven about 45 minutes. The baking will be speeded up if the squash top is covered, but uncover the last few minutes to brown the dressing. Be sure and taste the bottom of squash with a fork.

A new water spaniel pup became a member of the family recently. It was discontented, sleepless and utterly miserable, so I set out to look for fleas. . . no fleas. . . but an incrustation of vermin that was the worst ever. I took a half tube of ammoniated mercury, mixed it with a half cup of automobile crank case oil, heated it, and with a small brush worked it into every inch of the pup's hide, washing with soap and water almost immediately. Two such treatments have moved on the vermin, lock, stock and barrel, and is that pup happy!

Wednesday: City Chicken and Macaroni Souffle Pie.

PATTERN 2395

By ANNE ADAMS

This little dress says she wants a "cool-frock" just like Mother's, so Anne Adams has designed this one especially for her. It's a "self-helper" if ever there was one, so that tiny fingers can fasten their own buttons. The contrasting collar just misses being the conventional "sailor" type, where it zig-zags in front, though from the back it looks like one. Gingham, cotton broadcloth, pique, or any of the pre-shrunk fabrics are sure to give long and faithful service.

Teacher Returns From Trip Abroad

ORANGE, Sept. 17.—Following a vacation trip which took him through most of southern Europe, Theodore Anderson, a teacher in the local high school, has returned to Orange to resume his duties in the school work.

Anderson was accompanied by Walter Born of Yale university, the party sailing from New York late in June. Following a brief visit in England the two made a two-weeks bicycle tour of Bavaria, then visited Vienna, Roma and other southern cities.

"The public belief in Italy seems to be that Ethiopia will be taken without bloodshed," Anderson said today. "It is unthinkable to the Italians that anyone would dare resist it." The return trip was made through Switzerland and France, with short stays in Paris and Cherbourg. Detained at the family home in Cape Cod, Mass., by the illness of his sister, Anderson returned to Orange late last week.

KEEP SMILING FREE DINNERS
PROGRAM GIVES TO BE GIVEN
HEALTH ADVICE AWAY TONIGHT

Speaking on "The Barometers of Our Lives," Dr. James Workman, well-known Orange county chiropractor, will discuss warnings given by the body, of disorders which should have immediate attention, during tonight's "Keep Smiling" program on KREG from 7:15 to 8:00.

"You have very often based your action upon the advice given by a mechanical barometer indicating weather conditions, why not heed the 'reading' of your degree of health by the 'barometer of life'?" Dr. Workman said. "The lines and shape of your face, as well as the lines of your body, give a far more accurate and far more simple 'reading' of your degree of health, than the approach to danger to health, than the barometer can give of storms."

MacDowell's composition, "To a Wild Rose," will be played during the musical portion of tonight's "Keep Smiling" program.

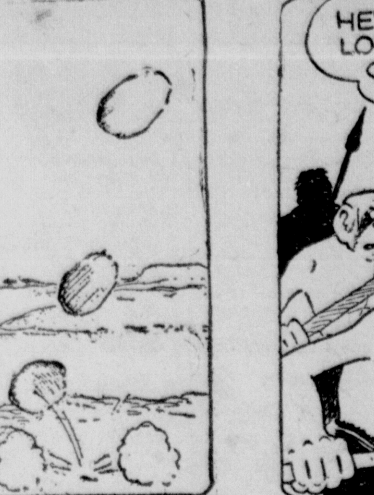

Two appetizing dinners will be given away to two fortunate winners of Eddie Barnes' request prize program on KREG from 7:15 to 7:45.

Officials stated that those taking part in the program had the same opportunity of winning the dinners irrespective of the time during the program that they telephoned in. Requests received a minute before 7:45, whether played or not, are just as likely to win one of the desirable prizes.

A telephone call to Santa Ana 4900, the making of a request for any musical composition, and the giving of one's name and address for identification purposes, are all "requirements" for participation. Details of how the prizes are given will be announced at the opening of the program.

The "Little" Eddie Barnes prize programs are regularly scheduled Tuesdays and Thursdays at the same hour.

FINANCIAL AND MARKET NEWS

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, Sept. 17.—(UP)—War babies stood out in a firm but dull stock market session today.

Pow (powder) shot up 6 points to a new high since 1930 at 133 1/2. Monsanto Chemical (with a chemical factory in England which could supply war materials) reached 80 1/2 up 1 1/2. Electric Blue (substances) made a new high at 5 1/2 up 1/2. Hercules Powder traded 7 1/2 up 1/2. Atlas Powder made a new high at 47 up 1/2. Copper shares (copper is used heavily in war supplies—shells, guns, etc.) advanced as the rise rose on Italian buying abroad of copper metal. Steels strengthened with U. S. Steel just under its high. Other steels gained fractions to more than a point.

The remainder of the list made smaller gains than the war group although strength in the latter was a factor in forcing up prices all around. Early in the session the market had moved sharply in a narrow range with trading quiet. Bulls were firm all day in light trading. Motors rallied after an early decline. Higher building issues, the latter featured by Johns Manville.

Wheat soared as much as 4 cents a bushel, corn more than 2 cents and soybeans 1 cent. Cotton rose more than a dollar a bale. Cotton is a big factor in producing munitions. In a war of the future there would be no wheat to export but use of wheat for the warring nations might have an influence on the domestic price, hence the rise today.

The demand for copper metal sent the price of export metal 8 1/2 cents higher. Italy was reported negotiating for 10,000 to 20,000 tons.

Gold and silver had a favorable influence on farm equipments which were bid up as much as 2 points. Mail order issues, especially in recent trading, also rallied.

Amusement issues continued relatively active although gains were small. An exception was Paramount first preferred which jumped 4 points. Warner Brothers Pictures made a fractional rise to a new top.

Railroad shares at one time had gains ranging to more than a point. They were added by further gains in the afternoon. The market was a bit more active. Toward the close they eased off. Union Pacific touched 102 1/2, the year's high. Santa Fe, Great Northern Preferred was active at 26 1/2.

Volume approximated 1,300,000 shares. The New York Stock Exchange reported sales were 223,000 shares compared with 233,000 shares yesterday.

FOR

DENOMINATIONAL JOURNALISM

"Advance", formerly known as "The Congregationalist", is one of the oldest denominational journals in the country. Beginning as "The Boston Recorder", it assumed the name of the "Congregationalist." Later it was merged with the "Advance", published in Chicago.

When the Congregational and Christian churches were united, the journal of the latter denomination was merged with it, and it became "The Congregationalist and the Herald of Gospel Liberty." That name was too cumbersome, and the name was changed to "Advance." This it continues to be.

Now comes the announcement that it is to be transformed into a monthly, assuming a format of the size of the "Atlantic" and the "Harpers." The circulation has been dwindling, until at present it is below 10,000.

It has been a problem to the denomination. The annual deficit has been increasing, and it is the hope that this last change, with the reduced subscription price, will give the journal a new lease of life.

But a committee of strategy, appointed at the last general council of the denomination, has just sent out a tentative report, in which the suggestion is made of a still further change in this publication. All of which reveals the fact that denominational religious journals seem to be on the way out.

In other denominations, there has been a similar denominational journalistic mortality. It is increasingly difficult to finance religious journals.

"The Christian Century", an interdenominational religious weekly, published under private auspices in Chicago, has gained a strong hold among the leaders of all the denominations. Its progressive standards and its virile editorial policy have placed it among the leaders of the journals of opinion in the country.

The decline of the denominational journal has been going on now for some years. The weakening of denominational ties, resulting from the decreasing emphasis upon religious shibboleths and the stressing of the great fundamentals of the Christian faith, is largely responsible for this decline.

The fact that a journal like "The Christian Century" can carry on with success is evidence that there is still a vital interest in religious problems and discussions. The so-called "secular" journals are given to carrying more religious material. No articles in these journals have a larger reading constituency than those which deal with religious subjects.

We hear much about the decline of the church in these days. There is little question about it. But in making an estimate of that decline, it is well to note that ethical standards have never been higher than they are at the present time.

Institutional religion may be having a relapse, but the "pure and undefiled religion", which "visits the fatherless in their affliction and keeps itself unspotted from the world", still has a large place in the lives of men and nations.

This type of religion will always require institutions to make it effective, and the church may yet be the vehicle through which it may be most effectively advanced. Gradual changes in church life and activity reveal an adaptability to changing conditions and emphasis. They who prophesy the passing of the church have reckoned neither with the vitality of religion nor with the church's readiness to adjust itself to a changing world in matters of ethics and religion.

HUNTING FOR AN ISSUE

Usually, the party out of power has an advantage not possessed by the party in power. It can magnify the mistakes and the failures of the party in power, of which there are always some, and keep hammering at them.

Like the bellman in "The Hunting of the Snark", the constant repetition of these mistakes and failures makes them very real to the people. The things that have been done by the party in power do not stand out very markedly, and are easily pushed into the background by a vigorous opposition.

But in the next presidential campaign, the party out of power may not find it so easy to deflect the thinking of the people by calling attention to the mistakes of the party in power. Many acts of the administration have come close home to the average man.

When the man out of a job, gets one through a project set up by the government, he is apt to think kindly of the party in power. Or, when the farmer gets a perfectly good check, in return for some product he has sold to the manufacturer through the processing tax, he too will think kindly of the party in power.

The man who gets the job and the farmer who gets a check have relatives and friends and it will not take much to convince these friends that the party in power is friendly to all the people. Many similar illustrations might be cited.

It is apparent that Mr. Roosevelt has the convincing issues. The volume of criticism coming from various sources cannot be taken too seriously.

And the fact that the administration has done many things, and that signs of recovery are manifest on all sides, are of themselves powerful incentives to hold the support of the masses of the voters.

The frantic efforts of the Republican leaders to take hold of any handle that for the moment is sticking out in sight is in itself evidence of the desperation in which they find themselves.

Added to these factors is the unusual astuteness of the political leaders of the administration party. It is saying nothing derogatory to President Lincoln, who had such an uncanny political sense, that not since his day has there been an administration in power in Washington that was so politically astute as the present one. It may be thought of in any way one pleases, but it is usually such astuteness that wins elections.

All the political wisecracks, whose wishes are not the fathers of their thoughts, are of the opinion that Mr. Roosevelt must be endured or enjoyed, depending upon the individual point of view, for another four years. And it is due in the main to the fact that his party has the issues, while the opposition is opportunistically taking hold of anything that has a bit of promise about it.

AL SMITH'S NEW FRIENDS

It is an old saying that "politics makes strange bedfellows." Who would have thought that Governor Smith of New York in the middle '20's would ever have become acceptable to William Randolph Hearst and the darling of the members of the American Liberty league? The man who fought the battle for freedom of speech in the days when the country was swept by a devastating hysteria is now acceptable in the "holy of holies" of the temple of conservatism.

Such a transformation, chameleon-like in its suddenness, has rarely been known in American political history. The men who now court "Al" Smith were then his bitterest enemies.

They invented stories about the uncouthness of his wife. They were shocked by his "Bowerly" accent. They carried on whispering campaigns about his religion, or at least condoned them.

They pictured the dismay of ambassadors who might possibly, with a slap on the back, be addressed as "Old Potato" in the social sanctuary of the East Room in the White House.

The idol of the plain man and the under dog has become a great realtor and has been welcomed in the secret chamber of the bank director. He has lost the common touch. His new friends are not those who raised him to honor.

The Cow and the Pig

Oakland Tribune

Consider the cow and the pig. If one is jumping over the moon the other is performing a feat more remarkable.

This is what has happened: "Nearly twice as many dollars now must be set aside by the housewife to buy the 75 pounds of pork chops and bacon and ham that her family requires each year than needed to be set aside two years ago. Just about half again as many dollars as two years ago must be used by her to fill the family's usual requirements for 150 pounds of beefsteaks and roasts."

The figuring has been done by the United States News which, in Washington, has been studying the records. In the case of beef, there has been no Federal control program, no processing taxes and no production control. The drought was particularly severe in the cattle area and producers had to market millions of their animals or see them starve. The Government paid out over 100 million dollars to buy drought-stricken cattle.

The pig story is different. Here there is a control program that levies a processing tax of 2.25 cents a pound on all animals marketed. The Government, back in 1932, paid good prices for six million little pigs which were slaughtered to reduce a surplus. Then the drought caused a shortage of feed. The Secretary of Agriculture puts the blame wholly upon the drought; his opponents, admitting he could not be expected to foresee a drought, say the largest blame is with his policies.

Whatever the values in the argument, the shortage in the case of hogs, says the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, will not be relieved until the Summer of 1936. A good corn crop this year might relieve the cattle situation for next year. It will be some months before there can be a prospect for lower prices.

An Artist's Tribute

Anaheim Bulletin

Tomorrow Anaheim will see the dedication of a statue of Madame Helena Modjeska—the tribute of one artist to another.

Well over a half century ago the noted actress attempted to establish a colony here for her fellow artists from Europe. She did not reckon with the artistic temperament and the venture soon lost momentum.

Had the colony been the success the actress expected it is probable that the Modjeska world came to know and love never would have developed. For it was only after the family fortunes had been wasted on the colony that Modjeska returned to the stage and to fame and fortune.

Modjeska never left a large mark upon this community. Even the house in which she lived here has been destroyed and not a great many people know definitely where it stood. While here she joined in community life, taking part in local talent stage productions, but her performances were not such as to remain many decades in the memory of her adopted home city.

The statue to be dedicated tomorrow represents the attempt of a sculptor to express in stone his conception of the great tragedienne in action. It also represents the determination of a small group of individuals to preserve for coming generations an ever-present reminder of the greatness of one of the city's people. The statue is a monument to that determination.

Can't Fool Taxpayer When He Pays Bill

San Bernardino Sun

In a neighboring county appears this announcement:

Because of the 25 per cent increased assessed values on property ordered this year by the state board of equalization, taxes will be slightly higher this year than they were for 1935.

The "slightly higher" taxes in the county in question are an increase of an estimated 20 per cent.

There is only one reason for higher taxes this year in any county, city or school district in the state of California. That reason is increased public expenditures. The assessment values have nothing to do with the amount of money actually paid; the assessment values do have something to do with the tax rate, but the tax rate is not the tax bill.

In every county in California this year public utility properties were returned to the local tax rolls and in many counties the percentage of assessed values was increased. Taxes go up only in those counties where public expenditures were increased.

Taxpayers can be fooled by tax rates, but they can't be fooled when they find the total of their tax bill has been increased.

Is That Going to be the Extent of Republican Imagination?

More Truth Than Poetry

By James J. Montague

A LAY OF DEFIANCE

An architect declares that houses should be built without cellars, and attics.

I covet no great marble castles

That look on a river or sea;

A throng of retainers and vassals

Would be utterly useless to me.

I may be a trifle erratic,

But I'm sure, when the past I recall,

That a house which has not a real attic

Would be no habitation at all.

But only a place where one hangs up his hat

And dries his damp feet on the mat.

Any boy, who's a regular feller

And lives in a regular town,

Knows just what to do with a cellar

When the rain-drops come pattering down.

What, to him, is raw blustering weather?

He can chivvy the rats to their hole,

And for long happy hours together

Build beautiful castles of coal.

No urchin can possibly have a good time

Unless he is sooted with grime.

I lack any longing for splendor

As my way through existence I wend.

I have never been much of a spender

Because I have little to spend.

But I tell you, in language emphatic,

That neither myself nor my spouse

Will dwell in a cot with no attic

Or abide in a cellarless house.

I know my resources are waning—and fast—

But I'll stick to that rule to the last.

Thoughts On Modern Life

BY GLENN FRANK

THE THREE-FOLD TASK OF POLITICS

The freedom which marked the nineteenth century liberal state is everywhere on the defensive.

It has been set aside in Italy.

It has been thrown out in Russia.

It has been thrown out in Germany.

The story is the same in all the minor dictatorships that have loomed less in the headlines.

Three factors, among others, have joined to put this freedom of the liberal state in jeopardy.

(1) The spirit of genuine enthusiasm for freedom which produced the nineteenth century liberal state has more or less petered out.

(2) The electorates have not fulfilled the hopes had for them when the ballot was placed in their hands by the epidemic extension of democracy.

(3) The representative governments have been distressingly sluggish in responsible adaptation of their policies and procedures to changing circumstances.

These three factors that have combined to put democratic self-government in danger give the cue to the job that lies ahead for political leadership.

Any political leadership that is to lead us into a renaissance of democracy and not into either Fascism or Communism must do three things:

(1) It must contrive to stir again in us a genuine enthusiasm for liberty.

(2) It must stir the voting masses to a new interest in government.

(3) It must make government responsibly flexible, willing always to adapt old tools to new tasks.

Here is the three-fold task of politics.

CHILDREN'S AMBITIONS

"Miss Gray, please, could I have a desk and a chair like Lorraine's?"

Miss Gray looked at the little figure dressed in rompers about ten inches long, and said: "Let me see. How long are your legs?"

"They're quite long, Miss Gray."

Then, truth insisting, "But not quite as long as Lorraine's."

"You sit down in your own chair and let me measure. Here, the legs of the desk chairs. See?"

We'll measure the legs of the desk chair, and the desk legs, too. Oh, they are long, aren't they? Your feet would dangle. We will keep measuring, and the very first day that your legs reach we will give you the right-sized chair and desk for them."

"Am I too little, Miss Gray?"

"Oh, my, no. Of course not. You are quite as big as a three-year-old girl ought to be. You're just right for yourself, you know."

"Oh, I wouldn't like to be too small, would I? But when I grow I can have a chair and a desk. I hope I grow fast."

One has to be careful about such ambitions. All children are eager to grow up, to have what the older and bigger ones have, to do what they do. The child in the infant class longs for a pile of books to swing on a strap. The junior high school child longs to own a brief case and to sport a letter on his sweater. These ambitions are tonic for their growth if they are wisely met by the teachers and the parents. It is not wise to dismiss such a child with, "You're too small, you're too young, you're too immature."

That kind of rebuff makes a child feel that he is deficient. He is left with the feeling that he is inadequate and, of course, he cannot help matters. He cannot be bigger or older or more experienced by wishing himself so. He must go ahead as he is and bear this burden of feeling that whippers, unfit, unfit, for all those long days to come.

I like to teach little children the song about the little elf down where the lilacs blow and how he said, "I'm just as big for me as you are big for you."

Teach the children they are just as big in their own right as the bigger child is in his. Make him feel adequate for his day and leave him with a feeling of success and a hope for the future. Don't say, "What? A boy your age? A girl so small? You're too young, too little."

Keep saying, "For a child your age you are fine. By the time you grow a few inches more you will be a wonder. Of course you can have a big chair when your legs stretch. To be sure you can go to school alone when your back is longer. About this time next year you will be strong enough to carry more books, and you shall have a new strap for them like Jack's."

You can have no idea how much one little word can mean, or what importance the placing of a word can take on in dealing with children until you have seen the results. Make them feel as big as they are and they will go on merrily enough. Make them feel less than they are and they fall by the way. So much for so little effort on our part is surely worth while.

HYDRA FOR CITY

WHICH?

Here and There

Due to the fact that bumpers are now placed lower than they were a few years ago, a physician can often tell by looking at an X-ray film of a fractured leg whether the patient has been struck by an automobile.

Experiments are being conducted in Germany with a type of Diesel engine that burns oil produced from hard-coal tar.

An experimental high-powered Diesel engine for aircraft has been produced in Russia and in tests has shown a fuel consumption ranging between 0.35 and 0.37 pounds per horsepower hour.

Many planes of the British Royal Air Force are propelled by gasoline produced from coal.

Wing flaps now in general use on transport planes enable them to land at about 55 miles an hour and in one-third the distance formerly required.

To a person on the ground the larger portion of the noise made by a plane in flight is a result of the rhythmic sound of the propeller. Anti-aircraft listening devices hear first the pulsations of the engine.

Retractable wheels on modern air liners cut air resistance and increase speed by 25 to 30 miles an hour.

The United States and Guatemala have reached an understanding that private aircraft of either country engaged in tourist or pleasure flight may enter the territory of the other without obtaining special permission.

On Hamilton Field, Calif., a turret-shaped camera obscura has been installed for following maneuvers of bombing planes. An observer within follows the images of aircraft projected on a table may by a wide-angle lens.

A dirigible, when moored at her mast, is trimmed so that the lifting power of the confined gas is constant throughout her length. The rear end, therefore, does not stick up into the air.

The quietness of modern air transport is due largely to the fact that the huge propellers are geared to revolve at comparatively low speeds.

Major air lines last year completed on time 95 to 99 per cent of all scheduled trips.

As part of its program to bring about development of safer, easier-operated, low-priced aircraft for the private owner, the Bureau of Air Commerce has awarded a contract for a six-cylinder, radial, air-cooled engine with a diameter of only 20 inches.

In the Long Ago

From The Register Files 25 Years Ago Today

SEPTEMBER 17, 1910

"High Cost of Living" will be the subject of a searching investigation on a wide scope by the grand jury of the District of Columbia, which will convene the first week in October, it was announced today.

That a wide strip of territory off the southeastern section of Los Angeles county will soon be knocking at our doors for admission to Orange county, seems highly probable. This strip would certainly include Long Beach and Naples. Should such a move be made, Long Beach would be the leading spirit, having made the statement that she is determined not to be swallowed up by Los Angeles.
